'Pornography' Guides Tightened

. . .Supreme Court Rulings Affect Limits Of Sexual Candor

WASHINGTON (AP) — In an attack on "hard-core pornography," the Supreme Court Thursday wrote stringent new guidelines on the limits of sexual candor in books and movies.

Combating the trend toward greater sexual explicitness, the 5-4 decision gave local prosecutors a broader definition of what is obscene and therefore outside the protection of the First Amendment.

The high court abandoned its long-held test that to be obscene, sexual material must, among other things, be utterly without redeeming social value. And, the court ruled, local community standards on permissible candor should govern—not a national standard.

Critics of such an approach have claimed that it would reduce movie distributors and publishers to offering works that met the standard of the most prudish community in the nation.

For the first time since the court first grappled with the issue in 1957, "a majority of this court has agreed on concrete guidelines to isolate 'hard-core' pornography," proclaimed Chief Justice Warren E. Burger who wrote the majority opinion in five related obscenity cases.

The majority opinion prompted dissenting Justice William J. Brennan Jr. to declare that it is now "hard to see how state-ordered regimentation of our minds can ever be forestalled."

Burger was joined in the majority obscenity decision by President Nixon's three other appointees to the court, Justices Harry Blackmun, Lewis F. Powell Jr., and William H. Rehnquist, and by veteran Justice Byron R. White.

The new guidelines written by the majority for determining what is obscene require juries to decide:

"(a) Whether the average person applying contemporary community standards would find that the work, taken as a whole, appeals to the prurient interest; (b) Whether the work depicts or describes in a patently offensive way sexual conduct specifically defined by the applicable state law, and (c) Whether the work, taken as a whole, lacks serious literary, artistic, political or scientific value."

In adopting the standard of "serious value," the court rejected the requirement first specifically announced in 1966 that the work must be "utterly without redeeming social value."

The court's new guidelines came in a case involving a California man who was prosecuted under state law for mailing obscene brochures.

In a companion case from Georgia, the court held that there is no constitutional requirement for the testimony of experts on whether material is obscene.

The case involved the showing of two films at the Paris Adult Theater in Atlanta. Burger said the films were the best evidence of what they represented.

In the Georgia case, the court emphatically rejected the notion that such films had constitutional protection when shown only to consenting adults.

Burger said the state has a legitimate interest "in stemming the tide of commercialized obscenity . . ."

Brennan, joined by Potter Stewart and Thurgood Marshall, dissented sharply, concentrating his objection on Burger's opinion in the Georgia case.

If the states are permitted, " in an effort to maintain or create a particular moral tone, (to) prescribe what its citizens cannot read or cannot see, then it would seem to follow that in pursuit of that same objective a state could decree that its citizens must read certain books or must view certain films," wrote Brennan.

In a separate dissent, Justice William O. Douglas said he has never been "trapped into seeing or reading something that would offend me."

"I see no constitutional basis for fashioning a rule that makes a publisher, producer, bookseller, librarian or movie house criminally responsible, when he or she fails to take affirmative steps to protect the consumer against literature or books offensive to those who temporarily occupy the seats of the mighty," Douglas wrote.

In the other obscenity decisions, the high court approved the authority of Congress to prohibit the transportation of obscene material on common carriers such as airlines and trucks, and to prohibit its importation whether for private or commercial use.

U.S. Weaponry Keeps Advantage

WASHINGTON (AP) — A look at American and Soviet nuclear strength Thursday shows the United States widening its advantage of accuracy and advanced technology.

When President Nixon reviews his arsenal, he finds 41 Polaris nuclear submarines which roam the seas with almost no fear of being found. Of these, 16 have been fitted with advanced Poseidon missiles, each capable of carrying 14 warheads which, in turn, can be aimed separately at almost any Russian target.

The Russians have developed a new missile to go with their equally new delta-class submarine. The new missile, called the SSN8, with a range of about 8,000 miles, is intended to give Russian submariners the same kind of mobility of the seas now enjoyed by the Americans.

In all, the Russians have 45 nuclear subs, afloat or under construction but they are without the independently targetable missiles developed by the United States. Those missiles, called multiple indepently targeted re-entry vehicles, give the United States the nuclear advantage it currently enjoys.

The same is true of land-based long-range missiles. They are limited by the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) agreement to about 1,500 for the Russians and 1,000 for the Americans, but modernization and refinement are permitted.

So the United States has been taking its Minuteman II missiles, which have independent warheads, and turning them into Minuteman IIIs, which are more accurate than any big weapon ever produced.

The Russians, meanwhile, have been working very hard to put independent warheads on their own long-range missiles. Those are expected to be ready sometime in 1975.

Because Russian missiles are more numerous and powerful than their American counterparts, some American officials fear the Soviets could gain the upper hand if they also achieve the ability to perch numerous warheads, independently targetable, on each missile.

Even now, the Russians have developed a less sophisticated weapon which fires three warheads in shotgun fashion, though always at the same target.

And while the Russians continue a vigorous testing program designed to upgrade both the accuracy and range of their missiles, the United States is developing no new long-range missiles. Only a small amount of research funds are going for that purpose.

The third key element of a nuclear force on both sides is the long-range bomber, not covered by the SALT agreement signed 13 months ago. The American B52 fleet of 352 bombers is being phased out, while the Air Force presses for a new long-range bomber, the B1, as a substitute.

The Russians have 141 heavy bombers.

There is considerable debate among military officials in both countries on whether strategic bombers are now outdated.

NPPD May Have To Curb Pollution

. . .At Platte Valley Plant

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

The Nebraska Public Power District may be required to tighten air pollution control efforts at its proposed new coal-burning generation plant in the Platte Valley as a result of a recent U.S. Supreme Court decision.

NPPD environmental manager Dr. Eric Sloth said the court ruling will have "an effect" on the plant, "but I don't know yet where we are going."

"This could require more extensive controls over particulate (ash) emissions," he said.

NPPD will await further policy pronouncements from the Environmental Protection Agency, Sloth said.

Injunction Eyed

In the meantime, members of the Platte Valley Sierra Club have been discussing the possibility of a court injunction based on the premise that NPPD cannot construct a coal-burning plant which would not substantially degrade the unusually clean air in the Platte Valley.

The Supreme Court decision held that federal law prohibits any "substantial" degradation of clean air, in effect imposing stricter requirements than federal standards in unpolluted portions of the country.

NPPD had designed the pollution control equipment at its 650-megawatt power plant near Sutherland to meet federal standards.

Actually, Sloth said, "we would do better than those standards."

Federal standards would permit the Sutherland operation (at full load) to emit as much as 5.7 tons of particulates into the air each day.

"We would put out less than that," Sloth said.

Sloth said he would not consider such emissions to constitute "substantial degradation" of air in the Platte Valley.

"The particulates would be dispersed over a wide area," he said, "and there is more dust than that in the air from farm operations."

EPA may within a week or two "put a number on what it considers to be substantial degradation," Sloth said.

Definition Expected

"I suspect that EPA will put out some definition" as a result of the court ruling, and NPPD will await that action before determining its future course.

Tightened pollution control efforts would increase costs of the plant, Sloth said, but he doubted that would delay construction.

Contacted in Hershey, Mrs. Robert Huebner, Sierra Club publicity chairman, said members are "very happy" with the court ruling issued earlier this month and are now considering "our next move."

The Sierra Club has long contended that the plant would substantially degrade the air in the Platte Valley, Mrs. Huebner said. "That's our belief," she noted.

The $180 million plant, scheduled for commercial operation in 1977, will burn 300 tons of coal an hour when it is operating at full load.

County Board 'Order' Questioned By Trabert

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

Lancaster County Welfare Director J. Earle Trabert confirmed Thursday that he had received a letter from Lancaster County Board Chairman Robert Colin stating that welfare recipients are not to be housed or to receive services from the new Holmes Lake Manor Nursing Home.

A letter to Trabert and signed by Colin, stated that "it is the decision of the Lancaster County Board of commissioners that effective immediately, and under no circimstances without approval from the county board, are Lancaster County welfare recipients to be housed or receive services" from the home at 6101 Normal Blvd., which opened about a month ago.

The letter further states that "it is the board's feeling that the operating policies of the present administration and staff of the home do not reflect a philosophy of care which will meet the needs of Lancaster County welfare patients."

Trabert said he will send a letter to the commissioners for next week's board meeting pointing out that he cannot, because of federal regulations, comply with the mandate of the county board.

Federal regulations state that prior authorization to determine medical necessity and to consider alternate methods of care and to "curb over-utilization" cannot be used to restrict a recipient's choice among available qualified providers.

"When an item of medical care under the plan requires preauthorization, only the level of care or type of provider may be specified.

"The recipient must be permitted to make his own choice among those providers who are appropriate to his particular medical needs. For instance, for admittance to a skilled nursing home, a physician must certify only the recipient's need for the level of care provided by that facility.

"Recipients must be allowed to make their own choice among participating nursing homes with available beds," the regulations state.

Trabert said that to follow the mandate of the commissioners would be illegal, in his opinion, and for that reason if any welfare recipient chooses to go to Holmes Lake Manor and that home is willing to accept the individual at the rates set for welfare recipients, he will approve it.

A check of Lancaster County Board minutes showed no "decision of the Lancaster County Board of Commissioners" referred to in Colin's letter.

Commissioner Jan Guager, who is on a month's vacation, was unavailable for comment on the letter.

Commissioner Kenneth Bourne said that Colin had showed him a draft of the letter and he asked Colin if the commissioners really had the authority to stop someone's going to a particular nursing home.

He said Colin told him that the board did have that right so he sanctioned the letter.

County Attorney Paul Douglas said that he thought the board has the authority to step in when through past experience it has been shown county welfare patients have not been given adequate care in a given facility.

However, he indicated that he wasn't sure how such care could be judged in such a short period of time since the Holmes Lake Manor Nursing Home opened.

Administrators OK Salary Plan Change

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

Lincoln Public Schools administrators have given 3 to 1 approval to a 1973-74 salary schedule that wipes away, for the first time, college-degree status as a factor in salary determination.

Instead the new schedule will relate salary levels to the responsibilities tied to the various administrative positions.

Actual vote on the proposal was 71 to 24. The proposal will now go to the Board of Education for its action.

Under the schedule used in past years, administrators who had either 36 hours beyond their masters degrees or doctors degrees were awarded additional salary stipends.

For the masters-plus-36 administrator the stipend was $500. For the Ph.D. or Ed.D. administrator, the stipend was $1,000.

The new schedule also maintains the potential for salary advancement due to experience, but after five years' experience any raises are to be considered "performance" or merit increases.

Lowest pay level, $13,450, would go to an elementary assistant principal with no experience under the new schedule. Highest paid would be a senior high principal awarded a performance raise. That pay level would be $23,440.

The salary increases in the new schedule will average about 5.5% overall.

The proposal is headed for certain approval by the school board, since the board for several years has attempted to get approval from employes for salary schedule determination which stresses responsibility and performance as criteria for level of pay.

The administrator pay plan marks the first inroad into such a determination with a major employe group.

Fuel Shortage Poll Results To Appear Sunday

Who do Nebraskans feel is responsible for current fuel shortage problems? The government, oil industry, consumers, environmentalists?

What should be done first if the gasoline shortage continues in Nebraska and some strong action is necessary?

A representative sampling of Nebraskans contacted in a statewide poll by Selection Research Inc. of Lincoln provides some insights to citizen opinion on these questions.

Results of the poll among 1,795 citizens will be published in June 24, editions of the Sunday Journal and Star.

Mexican Airliner Down; 27 Killed, 12 Americans

PUERTO VALLARTA, Mexico (AP) — A Mexican airliner with 12 Americans aboard crashed in Mexico, and a rescue flier said Thursday that all 27 persons aboard were killed.

The Aeromexico DC9 flight, originating in Houston, Tex., carried 23 passengers and a crew of four when it crashed after stopping in Monterrey, the airline said.

The plane, flight 229 had a final destination of Mexico City. It crashed about 11:30 p.m. EDT Wednesday in a jungled, mountainous area about 14 miles from the Puerto Vallarta airport. It was making what appeared to be a normal landing approach, authorities said.

All of the Americans had boarded the plane in Houston. Ten were going to Puerto Vallarta and one was going to Mexico City, Mexican immigration authorities said.

Miguel Chacon, a helicopter pilot who landed at the crash site, said all the bodies were removed and there were no survivors. He said large portions of the plane were intact.

Rescuers had to hack through the jungle to reach the crash site, near the Pacific coast. The bodies were carried through the jungle to trucks, which removed them to the beach where they were taken to Puerto Vallarta by boats.

Witnesses said the plane appeared to explode or spurt flame as it made its final approach to the Puerto Vallarta Airport. All had been normal on the approach, the air traffic controller reported, until suddenly the plane lost radio contact and flamed after Capt. Carlos Fernandez de Lara tested his landing lights.

The last radio contact was at 11:23 p.m. when Fernandez de Lara confirmed approval to descend from 14,000 to 4,000 feet while over the Pacific Ocean.

Another Summit Planned

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon accepted Thursday an invitation from Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev to hold another summit talk in the Soviet Union next year.

Brezhnev disclosed the invitation—and Nixon revealed his acceptance —in toasts at a dinner in the Soviet embassy. The 1974 summit will be the third between the two leaders in as many years.

The 1974 summit could provide a forum for signing a treaty permanently limiting the two country's offensive nuclear arsenals, under guidelines the two leaders agreed upon Thursday.

The joint instruction to strategic arms limitation talks (SALT) negotiators in Geneva set a 1974 target date for concluding the permanent limitation treaty.

Brezhnev made the invitation at a dinner he gave the President at the Soviet Embassy. "We want the development of our relations to be a maximum, stable process, an irreversible one," Brezhnev said.

Nixon accepted readily. He said he looked forward to meeting the Russian people and "the concrete results that would flow from a third summit session."

The first Nixon-Brezhnev summit in Moscow in the spring of 1972 produced, among other accords, an agreement to limit some nuclear weapons. The second summit, during Brezhnev's first visit to the United States, has led to an understanding to move toward additional limits and eventually a reduction of nuclear weaponry.

In his toast, Brezhnev told Nixon that "there are still a few problems and unfinished business." His only specific example was a need to accelerate arms limitations.

New York Times News Summary

Negotiations To Be Speeded On Offensive Weapons

(C) New York Times News Service

Washington — President Nixon and Leonid I. Brezhnev agreed to accelerate negotiations on a Soviet-American pact limiting offensive strategic weapons so that a permanent treaty could be achieved by 1975. After signing the agreement setting guidelines for delegations meeting in Geneva, the two leaders joked and clinked champagne glasses at the White House ceremonies. (More on Page 2.)

ITT 'Overstepped Line'

Washington — A Senate foreign relations subcommittee has charged that the International Telephone and Telegraph corporation "overstepped the line of acceptable corporate behavior" by seeking to enlist the help of the Central Intelligence Agency to prevent the election of Salvador Allende Gossens as president of Chile in 1970.

N-Plant Cooperation Agreed

Washington — The United States and the Soviet Union agreed to broaden their cooperation in developing atomic energy with particular emphasis on nuclear power plants. In an agreement signed at the White House, the nations pledged to cooperate on a "fast breeder reactor," regarded as the next significant advance in the field, and to join in research on ways to harness the power of the hydrogen bomb.

Court Rules On Pornography

Washington — A sharply divided Supreme Court, which split 5 to 4 on a series of five pornography cases, established a new set of guidelines that will allow states and communities to ban books, magazines, plays and films that may be acceptable elsewhere. (More on Page 1.)

Dividends Restrictions Relaxed

Washington — The government significantly relaxed restrictions on corporate dividends imposed as part of the economic freeze. Under trhe new rule, corporations may now increase dividends more than the previous 4% limit as long as the increase does not exceed the company's average ratio of dividends to profits over the past five years.

Nine Firms Being Watched

New York — The New York Stock Exchange has placed nine member firms under intensive surveillance because of financial difficulties that may force some of them into liquidation. The firms, which were not identified, are among 68 firms that had been placed on an "early warning list," because of high losses during a time of growing concern about the financial condition of the industry.

Consumer Prices Rise

Washington — Consumer prices continued to rise steeply last month, according to the labor department, which said the 0.6% increase for May was slightly less than for the previous two months. (More on Page 2.)

Hunt Got Cash Payoff?

Washington — E. Howard Hunt Jr. reportedly received a final $72,000 cash payoff in March after warning John D. Ehrlichman that he was ready to "tell all" about 1971 White House operations against Daniel Ellsberg. Sources close to the case said the warning was sent to John W. Dean III for relay to Ehrlichman.

Doctors Await Returning Crew

SPACE CENTER, HOUSTON (AP) — So eager are space doctors to get their hands on the Skylab crew that they expect to have the astronauts on examining tables within an hour after splashdown Friday.

This tight schedule is unprecedented in recovery operations after American space missions. It has required several changes in the way the crew will be plucked from the ocean 830 miles southwest of San Diego.

Speed is essential because physicians are keenly interested in the astronauts' initial reaction to earth gravity after 28 days of weightlessness.

Medical teams will get their first close look at Charles Conrad Jr., Dr. Joseph P. Kerwin and Paul J. Weitz when the astronauts enter portable laboratories aboard the recovery ship USS Ticonderoga.

When the command module containing the crew drops into the Pacific, the carrier will steam alongside. A crane will hoist the module aboard after divers have secured it with a flotation collar.

After previous U.S. missions, frogmen were dropped into the ocean to open the space capsule and the astronauts were pulled up into helicopters, then flown to the recovery carrier.

Dr. Don Stullken, National Aeronautics and Space Administration chief of recovery operations, said the new method was preferred because: — It is faster, unless the command module lands 15 or 20 miles off target;

—The crew won't have to exert themselves as much;

—The astronauts can be carried from the capsule right onto the carrier deck and into the laboratories if they are disabled;

—The command module contains dozens of samples being brought back from the orbiting Skylab space station. Some of the samples are frozen and some are incubated, so they must be taken out quickly and put in storage facilities on the ship.

Once the capsule is on board, Kerwin, who is a physician, will confer with a recovery surgeon about the condition of the astronauts. Kerwin will check his blood pressure and that of his crewmates to determine if they need to be carried out.

One of the main effects of prolonged weightlessness is that the cardiovascular system becomes lazy. When an astronaut returns to earth, the blood vessels may be unable to pump blood efficiently against the pull of gravity. If that happens, blood may not reach the brain in sufficient quantity and the astronaut may pass out.

Nuclear Ban 'Principles' Signed

World News

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and the Soviet Union Thursday signed an agreement in principle to limit and possibly reduce their stockpiles of offensive nuclear weapons by the end of 1974.

President Nixon and Soviet Communist leader Leonid I. Brezhnev raised their champagne glasses in toasts to success at the ceremony in the White House East Room.

The agreement, the outstanding accomplishment of their week-long summit was forged by Nixon and Brezhnev earlier at Camp David, the presidential retreat in the mountains of Maryland. It is designed to spur negotiators for the two countries at the recessed strategic arms limitation talks (SALT) in Geneva.

For the first time, the two nations committed themselves in principle to actual reductions of their nuclear weaponry as well as to permanent limitations. Also significantly, the United States evidently is bowing to Soviet objections to on-site inspections.

One of the seven stated principles provides that "national technical means" be the system of verifying whether Washington and Moscow were living up to a missile limitation.

Surveillance of multiple independently targeted warheads (MIRVS) evidently would be stricted mostly to observation by radar and spy satellite while in flight tests.

Henry A. Kissinger, the President's national security adviser, briefing newsmen, said that "those MIRV agreements that are not verifiable by national technical means would be difficult to reconcile" with the objective of restricting complex nuclear offensive weapons.

The two nations agreed in another provision that efforts by one or the other to obtain a nuclear advantage would be inconsistent with the goal of strengthening peaceful relations.

The arms limitation envisioned by the end of next year would include not only numbers but the quality of the missiles.

Nixon and Brezhnev also agreed that limitation on strategic offensive arms must be subject to "adequate verification." Both nations would be permitted to modernize and replace weapons only under conditions to be agreed upon at Geneva.

At the same time, Nixon and Brezhnev signed a 10-year pact to expand cooperation between the two countries on peaceful uses of atomic energy. It succeeds a series of two-year agreements.

The signing ceremony brought out the performer in Brezhnev, and Nixon played a willing "second banana." Seated side-by-side to sign their names four times on the pacts, Nixon found himself finishing ahead.

The President galanced over at the still-writing Brezhnev and stopped in mid-stroke waiting for Brezhnev to complete his "L. Brezhnev" in Russian script.

When the assembled dignitaries caught the point and laughed, Brezhnev, who had his head down, asked his interpreter for an explanation. As a result, the next time they signed the Soviet leader grandly waited upon Nixon. Then, like two school children, they raced each other to finish.

The major areas of the joint arms effort include: (1) controlling thermonuclear fusion; (2) research on "fast breeder" reactors which create more fuel than they consume; (3) research on the fundamental properties of physical matter.

Nixon and Brezhnev flew down by helicopter from the Catoctin Mountains to sign the historic document on the fourth day of their summitry.

Navy Seeks Answer To 'Cyclops Riddle'

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — A retired Navy diver says he thinks he stood on the deck of the sunken mystery ship Cyclops, which vanished with 309 persons aboard more than a half-century ago.

The Navy believes Dean Hawes might be right and, therefore, will try to relocate the wreck.

"We can't discount that it could be Cyclops," said Navy Capt. L.H. Bibby, assistant chief of staff for operations at submarine headquarters here. "The probability is extremely remote, but from his description, we can't rule out that it could be Cyclops."

Hawes said he stood on the deck of the ship in 1969 in about 180 feet of water some 70 miles off the Virginia coast.

The hulk had been spotted the year before during a search for a sunken submarine, but never had been identified.

The Navy will send out the salvage ship Kittiwake in September in an effort to relocate the vessel. It will use the operation as a training exercise for divers.

The Cyclops is listed by the Navy as its most baffling riddle. It disappeared in 1918 while en route to Baltimore from the Barbados with 309 passengers and crew and 10,000 tons of manganese ore.

Despite intensive searches and a demand from President Woodrow Wilson for an explanation, no trace of the ship was ever found.

Hawes said that in 1969 he entered the murky waters off Virginia's Cape Henry after two other divers had been unable to identify a strange, block-long craft at the bottom of the ocean. He said he found himself standing on the bow of the vessel.

Hawes said he had never seen a photograph of the Cyclops. He said the wreck he saw had a bridge supported by steel stilts above the deck. Upright beams ran the full length, similar to the skeleton of a skyscraper, he said.

"I thought, 'What the devil is this?' " Hawes said. "I'd never seen anything like it before."

But before he could explore further, he was forced to surface, and bad weather that night drove the salvage ship away from the scene. When it returned for another try, the wreck could not be located.

May Living Costs Up; Inflation Rate Continues

WASHINGTON (AP) — The sharpest inflation rate in 22 years continued its rapid pace in May as the buying power of American workers fell again, the government reported Thursday.

The Labor Department said higher prices for food, clothing and gasoline pushed the cost of living up six-tenths of 1 per cent, a rate slightly less than the seven-tenths of 1 per cent recorded in April.

This works out to an annual rate of 7.2 per cent, down from the 8.4 per cent annual rate of increase projected in April.

President Nixon's chief economics adviser, Herbert Stein, said the figures show inflation "subsiding from its earlier peak but still much too high and subsiding too slowly."

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said after-tax take-home pay of rank-and-file workers averaged $125.12 in May, up 87 cents from April and $14.51 from a year ago. But it calculated that inflation reduced real spendable earnings of these workers four-tenths of 1 per cent in May.

Strikes Rift Chile; Vital Services Cut

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Strikes in favor and against the policies of President Salvador Allende's leftist government left half of Chile's 10 million people without some vital services Thursday.

More than 100,000 strikers rallied outside Government House in downtown Santiago to voice their support of the Marxist president.

The strikes in support of Allende were called by the Central Labor Federation, dominated by the Socialist and Communist parties which make up part of the government.

Those striking against the government were doctors, engineers, other professional groups, some students and agricultural workers.

Four bombs exploded in Santiago, but no one was reported hurt. One blast was outside a Socialist party office, a second outside a government office and a third near a government television installation. The fourth bomb wrecked two cars outside the home of a Cuban embassy official.

The one-day strikes and a build up of tensions in Chile grew out of a walkout by 12,000 workers nearly two months ago at El Teniente, the world's largest copper mine, to enforce demands for a 41 per cent pay increase. The miners have taken an anti-Allende stand because the government refuses to meet the pay demands.

In the crowd that gathered outside Allende's residence were both men and women. Most wore plastic hardhats and many carried short staves and pitchforks. Others had hastily made bamboo lances.

Columns of about 1,000 persons each marched in orderly fashion from all over Santiago toward the plaza outside La Moneda, as the executive mansion is called.

Santiago city buses ran for about two hours in the early morning so people could attend the rally, but the rest of public transportation stopped throughout the country.

Horribly Disfiguring HCB Found In Cattle

. . . Chemical Causes 'Wolf Man' Syndrome

(c) Wahington Star-News

Washington — A chemical responsible for causing the horribly disfiguring "monkey face" or "wolf man" syndrome among thousands of Turkish children in the late 1950's has been found in high concentration in Louisiana cattle, and in lesser strengths in California, Texas and Arizona sheep and lambs.

Government officials describe the discovery as very serious, and several federal agencies are seeking to pinpoint the source of the Louisiana contamination, and to determine how widespread the problem may be nationwide.

The chemical is hexachlorobenzene, known as HCB. It is a byproduct of several chemical processes used in industry, and it is used as a fungicide to coat wheat before it is planted. Officials are particularly worried about the Louisiana outbreak because they have determined that it was not caused by cattle eating HCB-treated grain. Tests indicate that the HCB was carried by the wind from nearby chemical plants and depositied in fields where cattle were grazing.

David Goodman, a spokesman for the Department of Agriculture, said the discovery of HCB in the cattle in December was causing "a great deal of concern."

"This is exactly the kind of thing that has been dreaded," Goodman said. "It is the ecological scare story to end them all. It is in effect the first pollution problem that has directly affected agriculture.

About 15,000 head of cattle are currently quarantined in Louisiana.

The Turkish incident is the only large-scale experience involving human consumption of HCB and the results were disastrous. American wheat coated with the chemical and meant for planting was ground up instead and used to make bread. About 5,000 children who ate the bread became afflicted with a type of porphyria.

Hair Grows On Face

Skin exposed to sunlight becomes very sensitive and large infected blisters break out. A dark mat of hair grows on the body and limbs, particularly on the face. Physicians who investigated the Turkish outbreak — which also caused several deaths — described the type of porphyria contracted by the Turkish children as "monkey face" or "wolf man" syndrome due to the extreme hairiness.

The presence of HCB in the Louisiana cattle was picked up in December during a random USDA testing of slaughter carcasses for pesticide and other chemical residues. About six months earlier, chemists in the department's meat and poultry inspection program had discovered HCB in hams imported from The Netherlands and had clamped tight restrictions on the incoming meat.

The first HCB-infected cattle were found in a 900-head herd owned by a Darrow, La., farmer. After determining that the steers had been pastured and not grain fed, officials looked for a source of the HCB and a complex of petrochemical and other industrial plants in the lower Mississippi region were suspected.

An area within a five-mile radius of the town of Geismar, La., was quarantined in April and about 15,000 cattle in it are presently being tested for HCB residues.

Although the industrial culprits have not been positively identified, officials have found at least one company dumping chemical waste containing HCB in a sanitary landfill.

Firefighters Flee Raging Inferno

Leaving their tools behind, firefighters fled Thursday from the blasting heat as exploding flames threaten to encircle them in a brush fire that spread over thousands of acres of wooded land in California's San Bernardino National Forest. The firefighter's difficulties were compounded by temperatures that soared above 100-degree mark.

Alleged Extortion Probed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The special Watergate prosecution team is investigating whether extortion was used by President Nixon's campaign fundraisers, it was disclosed Thursday.

Thomas F. McBride, assistant to special prosecutor Archibald Cox, said Cox is adding staff members and may convene a special grand jury to probe complaints of illegal fund-raising methods.

Among those complaints are reports that Nixon fund-raisers solicited money vigorously from corporations and individuals who were involved in tax problems, contract disputes, securities investigations or other sensitive dealings with the government.

In a related development, former Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien urged reform of campaign financing as a way to salvage some good from the Watergate scandal.

O'Brien called for limits on the amount of money that candidates may spend, and urged use of the new provisions for financing campaigns through tax dollars rather than private gifts. Congress is considering whether to impose limits on campaign spending.

House Group Boosts Health, Ed Budgets

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Appropriations Committee Thursday voted to restore most of the cuts in health and education programs proposed by President Nixon, boosting his budget by $1.2 billion.

"The committee could not possibly accept the meataxe approach which was proposed in the budget," said the committee in sending the appropriations bill for the Departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare to the House floor.

The bill would continue community antipoverty programs, school aid measures and a wide variety of training programs in the field of health and medical research that Nixon had eliminated in his fiscal 1974 budget.

The bill to operate the two departments would provide $32.8 billion for the fiscal year beginning July 1, a cut of $731 million from the total appropriated for the current fiscal year.

Nixon vetoed last year's bill twice and has declined to spend all the money appropriated under the special funding procedure being followed in the absence of a regular bill. A veto of the 1974 bill is considered likely.

Besides ignoring most of Nixon's budget recommendations the committee rejected his request that a number of education and manpower programs be consolidated into special revenue sharing measures.

More Decisions Made By Court

©The New York Times

Washington — The Supreme Court also took the following actions Thursday:

Assembly

Held that the federal courts could not grant students at Kent State University an injunction against future interference with their rights by the National Guard on the grounds that this would necessitate unconstitutional interference by the judicial branch with the executive and legislative. Dissenting on grounds of mootness: Douglas, Brennan, Stewart and Marshall.

Criminal Law

Ruled that an accused bank robber is not entitled to have his counsel present when witnesses are asked to pick out a criminal from a group of pictures, which, unlike a lineup, is not a "critical stage" of prosecution. Dissenting: Brennen, Douglas and Marshall.

Desegregation

Ruled that school systems are illegally segregated if a substantial portion of the district is demonstrably segregated and put the burden on Denver school authorities of proving at a lower court trial that they did not intend to provide racial separation in the city. Dissenting: Powell, in part, and Rehnquist.

Discrimination

Upheld the validity of a Pittsburgh ordinance forbidding newspapers to carry employment advertising specifying the sex of applicants, over objections that this violated freedom of the press.

The 5-to-4 decision was a victory for advocates of women's rights, who maintain that such distinctions in advertising should only be allowed where there is a legitimate connection between occupation and sex. The complaint that touched off the suit was brought by the National Organization for Women. Dissenting: Douglas, Powell, Marshall and Stewart.

Search And Seizure

Overruled a decision that the search of a Mexican citizen's car 25 miles north of the border without a warrant was permissible, rejecting government pleas that immigration regulations permit warrantless searches within 100 miles of any border of the United States. Dissenting: White, Burger, Blackmun and Rehnquist.

Upheld the validity of a search of a car, after the driver had been arrested for drunken driving, which produced evidence that ultimately resulted in his conviction for murder. Dissenting: Brennan, Douglas, Stewart and Marshall.

Voting

Affirmed a decision that New York, Bronx and Kings Counties in New York State are exempt from provisions of the Voting Rights Act that prohibits the use of literacy tests where there has been low participation in voting, rejecting an attempt by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People to intervene and block the exemption. Dissenting: Douglas and Brennan.

EVENTS

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

For a welcome change of pace, if nothing else, the Nixon-Brezhnev meeting in Washington has crowded Watergate off the front pages of America. This historic meeting of world leaders, however, is far more than a change of pace.

There is no way that the meeting could fail to carry with it great significance for the people of the world. If it fails to produce anything meaningful, it will contribute to world anxiety. If it does produce something meaningful, it will raise the hopes and aspirations of the world.

At the moment, the latter situation would seem to be the case as encouraging signs are seen from the Camp David meeting grounds. It is Soviet party chief Brezhnev who is lending an air of optimism to the talks.

★

President Nixon has said little for public consumption, leaving that mostly to Brezhnev. The wisdom of this is not at all difficult to understand. If Brezhnev says things are going well, it is more convincing than if Nixon says it.

This is not a matter of the character of the two men but one of circumstances. In Russia, it would be more convincing to the Soviet people to hear Nixon say that progress was being made in seeking new accords between the two nations.

This is because the people of both nations tend to think that their respective nations want accords and it is the other guy who is holding them up. If that other guy talks of mutual understanding and benefit, it is of greater force than the home-town fellow speaking for his guest.

Brezhnev came to this nation for one major reason—to break down the barriers to trade that exist between the U.S. and the Soviet Union. But these barriers are anchored in some hard political realities. Adversaries do not become allies overnight.

Thus, the talks between the two leaders zero in on such things as mutual arms reductions in Europe and nuclear offensive weapons. It is a fact of life that no two nations can face each other with drawn swords and still carry on normal commerce.

One cannot afford to do business with someone who would pounce upon you the minute he had a slight advantage. Which nation might really pounce is somewhat unimportant so long as both believe the other would.

What Nixon and Brezhnev have to do is reach agreement in military affairs to such an extent that the threat each sees from the other is diminished. Then, the door to expanded trade relations will have been opened.

Oddly enough, this will not be met with universal pleasure if it does come to pass. Some of our European allies are cemented to the military confrontation that has existed between the U.S. and Russia, seeing U.S. military might as their only guarantee of security.

★

The Middle East, too, is troubled by accords between Russia and the U.S. What would the accords do to the delicate balance of power that exists in the Middle East between the U.S. Israeli allies and the Russian Arab allies?

Sometimes you wonder if the world has not been at odds for so long that it has forgotten how to live at peace. Not that peace is imminent, but even its possibility raises grave concern in many corners of the world.

Our clear choice, however, is for any new understanding that can be reached between Nixon and Brezhnev. While there are risks in shifting from confrontation to cooperation and negotiation, there is far greater potential for the advancement of the human race.

'Who Was Navigating, Anyhow?'

Alcohol On Campus

Chancellor James Zumberge will ask the University of Nebraska Board of Regents this weekend to allow students of legal age to have beer or liquor in their living units on the Lincoln campus.

Zumberge is suggesting that the policy be given a one year trial and an evaluation at the end of that period. Permission is also asked for the catering of alcoholic beverages for "special occasions" held in the Sheldon Memorial Art Gallery, Faculty Club, Nebraska Center for Continuing Education on the East Campus and the Nebraska Union.

Allowing students to possess alcoholic beverages in their rooms and for special occasions in the community rooms of their living units is the most controversial part of the Zumberge proposal.

Parents, alumni and other patrons of the university will be asking themselves whether the experimental policy would contribute to the abuse of alcohol by students or would it, rather, simply erase a hypocrisy that now exists.

We think the latter is true, that it faces up to the reality of what a student should expect of his home at the university and what his legal rights have given him, not to mention the reality of the unenforceable present policy.

Students of legal drinking age comprise the large majority of the student population and have ready access to beer and liquor if they want to use it. It is inconsistent for a university, which is expected to treat students as adults, to bar them from possessing in the privacy of their own rooms something they can legally enjoy elsewhere. Further, we question any argument that concludes that it is the university's business to monitor social conduct.

Those students who are prone to abuse alcohol will do so regardless of any set of rules and those who are not will not fall prey to beer and liquor merely because of a housekeeping change in policy.

Figures compiled by the university administration show that of seventeen midwestern state universities comparable to the University of Nebraska, thirteen permit either unrestricted or qualified possession of alcoholic beverages by students on the campuses, which we think is an expression of confidence in their students by those thirteen institutions. Joining in that realistic view is the University of Nebraska Alumni Board, which supports Chancellor Zumberge's request.

Zumberge is to be commended for offering what could be a politically unpopular proposal. It's hoped that the Nebraska Regents will decide the proposal on its merits and not side-step it because of its controversial nature. The question is not the encouragement of drinking — by now students have pretty much formed their patterns of social conduct — but rather what is and what is not the proper role of the university.

Honoring Wallace

State Sen. Ernest Chambers of Omaha has written Sen. Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts urging him not to deliver a Fourth of July speech in Alabama honoring Gov. George Wallace.

To pay homage to Wallace, who is being honored as representative of the "Spirit of America," is tantamount to rejection of the dead Kennedy brothers' dreams for America, Chambers suggests and he asks rhetorically whether "this reprehensible deed (is) your down payment on an installment plan to buy the presidency?"

Alabama, Chambers suggests, is the "land of the 'Spirit of America' where little girls are murdered in dynamited churches."

Wallace has been viewed in many minds as the personification of racism in America and Alabama and other southern states have been recognized as the home of a particularly virulent form of racism. The bitterness of Chambers, a black man, is understandable.

But Wallace is not the only bigot's image in this country and racism is not indigenous only to the south. It has been and is widespread.

It has been the experience of this country that conditions will slowly change for the better if racism is exposed and not covered up and left isolated to flourish.

What is needed now is to heal and come together. Not much can be gained from bitterly condemning Wallace, who has other, more admirable qualities, and isolating Alabama.

Perhaps Kennedy was thinking of those things, as well as his political fortunes, perhaps, when he decided to go to Alabama.

MILAN WALL

Regents To Be Busy

The University of Nebraska Board of Regents has set itself up for a meeting this weekend that promises to be as lively and action-packed as any in months.

Some of that is because it delayed until after adjournment of the legislative session consideration of alcohol consumption on the Lincoln campus.

And it also held till this meeting consideration of a new way of handling student fees, approval of guidelines for abortions at the Medical Center and expanded hours for permitting students to have guests of the opposite sex in their rooms.

Finally, this is the meeting at which the board has to decide the 1973-74 operating budget, approving details for expending the funds the Legislature appropriated for the coming fiscal year.

And among those details will be recommended salary increases for every member of the faculty. Since there are among those increases boosts of more than $4,000 per year, the regents are likely to want answers to some questions about them.

Such increases tend to make the board nervous, especially when they are to go to people in administrative jobs.

Since the board also plans to talk a bit more about Hiram Scott, the regents will be lucky to be leaving the meeting in time for church on Sunday.

☆ ☆ ☆

One of the interesting documents provided the board by UN-Lincoln Chancellor James Zumberge, who's recommending the policy to permit consumption of alcohol in living units and four other buildings, is a survey of Big 8 and Big 10 universities to see what they do about it.

The survey indicates that only four of 17 universities say no to the question, "Is liquor allowed on the campus?"

Those four are the University of Missouri, the University of Kansas, Kansas State University and Purdue. But among them, even Kansas U permits beer in the student union for special parties.

Among the other campuses, there are eight who gave an unqualified yes to the question, and they are Iowa State, the University of Colorado, Ohio State, Indiana University, Wisconsin, Michigan State, Michigan and Colorado State.

Several gave a "qualified" yes to the question, and among those campuses are Oklahoma U, Oklahoma State, Illinois, Iowa U and Minnesota.

Among some of those surveyed, the indications may not be totally accurate, however.

For example, a "No(?)" follows the question of whether liquor is permitted in fraternities and sororities at Colorado and Oklahoma, among others.

Yet I can distinctly remember, from my undergraduate days, seeing beer and liquor openly consumed in fraternities on both those campuses.

None of this is to say that since it's permitted elsewhere, it ought to be allowed here, as well. But then I also wonder whether the regents have a right to rent a room to a student of legal age and then tell him he can't have a drink there if he wants it.

☆ ☆ ☆

Although the attention on the liquor issue and coed visitation will be focused on the Lincoln campuses, the Medical Center will get its chance in the spotlight when the abortion matter comes up again.

The resolution adopted at a special meeting earlier this month—which told the doctors to limit abortions to those necessary to preserve a mother's life or health and to those necessary for a "conservative" teaching program—probably leaves as much leeway as the doctors desire.

But it's a safe guess that the Medical Center will say it will limit the number to something less than the 31 it had been performing each week.

The abortion issue is a bit tricky because it's fair to assume that the Medical Center should not be providing all the abortion services for the state. As a matter of fact, of course, it's not.

But it's also true that doctors in some parts of the state are more than willing to refuse to do them and at the same time refer abortion cases to those doctors who will.

As long as abortions are legal, one has to wonder whether it's right to force women who want or need them to travel from the state to get them.

☆ ☆ ☆

It's always interesting to try to guess, on such issues as liquor on the campus and abortions, how folks around the state look at them.

One such indication was provided several weeks ago when the statewide advisory committee to NU President D. B. Varner met in Lincoln.

In a straw vote, the citizen members of the committee split 50-50 on the liquor issue, but gave 10-1 endorsement of the policy the Medical Center had been following for abortions.

That may indicate that what we think Nebraskans would say on any issue, and what they actually believe, are sometimes different matters.

The Dreams

Lincoln, Neb.

We had a piano and guitar which Mama played. Many evenings after supper dishes were done, Mama played and she and Papa sang their favorite songs. She liked "Goodbye My Bluebell," and "Bird in a Gilded Cage," while Papa liked "Nearer My God To Thee." Sometimes they frolicked through "Yankee Doodle Dandy," etc. I always cried when Papa teased with "Come dig my grave deep and wide out on the prairie."

Since Mama was musical, my sister and I had to take lessons. My sister took well to it but me, I had a tin ear and wooden fingers, and we all knew it. But once I learned a new piece called "The Storm" and played it well. They all applauded and to this day they believe I had performed a miracle.

My mother passed on her talent to me in drawing and somewhere in school I began writing stories from flights of fancy. These got me into daily trouble there, for instead of doing my readin', writin' and 'rithmetic, I was drawing pictures or writing some far-fetched yarn. I would have to sit in the corner. Later I wrote of real people and situations.

Through the years, my hobbies have given me pleasure and release from the dreams of things I'd still like to do.

No Raise

Lincoln, Neb.

The pay plan made up for state employes is very unfair. Psychiatric technicians working in the Regional Center are being penalized for staying on the job for years. We are dealing with human lives and are entitled to more than "verbal praise" for our work, yet this is all we are getting.

Those of us who have been on the job for years have earned every penny we make. The cost of living and taxes has skyrocketed, but wages remain down in the dumps. Thanks to this so-called uniform pay plan, most of us don't get even a small five per cent cost-of-living raise. We have lousy working conditions. Only offices are lucky enough to have air-conditioning. We and our patients swelter in the summer heat. We work with a short-handed crew and often work our days off or work a double shift so that our patients are properly taken care of. We come to work in any kind of weather. Statehouse workers can have the day off in case of a big snowstorm, but nothing closes a hospital.

The statement that we were forewarned about this pay plan is false. No one I have talked to knew any of the details about it. If we had known, we would have been fighting it all along.

An earlier article had stated that state employes would have a smile on their faces; that those who earned less than $7,000 a year would get a 8.9% raise. Instead of that, we got kicked in the teeth. This is the first time in at least 33 years that there hasn't been some kind of raise for everyone.

Nebraska may be No. One in some things but in wages it ranks mightly low. Our patients will still receive the same fine treatment they've had in the past, but with no raises our initiative to do extra work beyond the actual call of duty just hit rock-bottom.

Shadows

Nelson, Neb.

CBS news analyst Bernard Kalb tells us the Chinese shadow is part of the Brezhnev-Nixon confabs. I concur. When Nixon was in Peking, the Russian shadow was part of the Chou En-lai-Nixon confabs.

The USA population is lucky to have these two socialist shadows around. They handle USA imperialists with gloves, are the big deterrent keeping their nervous fingers off the push-buttons releasing the bombs for WW III. USA youth should take heart, quit drugs, accept transitory life with its accompanying responsibility to get through it without hurting each other.

The big Republican vote in November was the USA rank-and-file's way of thanking the Chinese for the social maturity they displayed in treating the American entourage with every courtesy. It was as though the Chinese were speaking indirectly to the American people who quickly sensed this, as well as getting an almost first-hand look at the beauty of the Chinese character.

Such friendship wasn't in the least what USA banker-imperialists meant. They were telling off their European counterparts that they had an option in keeping the dollar afloat albeit association with Asiatic communists was the price. This involved a foreign jaunt for their front political bureaucrat, and so the dollar was saved another devaluation for awhile.

It now appears that Nixon, left to his own devices even momentarily, hasn't the political savvy attributed to him.

Thank You

Columbus, Neb.

American Baptist churches recently held a highly successful national convention in Lincoln. Much of the success of that convention was due to the kind of reception which Lincoln gave those out-of-town guests. For that reception we of the local arrangements committee say, "Thank you, Lincoln!"

We heard many laudatory comments on what a fine, clean city Lincoln is. People from smog-shrouded cities marveled at the clean air. Those from other parts of the country were particularly impressed with the friendliness of the business and service people they met. Many commented on how wonderful it was to be able to walk dark streets and through a dark campus at night without fear of molestation.

Thousands of Baptists left Lincoln with the feeling they had been well hosted by an exceptionally fine city.

Watergate Brings Conflict In First, Sixth Amendments

WASHINGTON — Ordinarily, one would not expect Spiro Agnew, Archibald Cox and The Times of London to agree on much of anything. On Watergate, however, they speak as with a single voice. All three contend that the right of potential Watergate defendants to a fair trial is being compromised by out-of-court allegations relating to the case.

In a long editorial published on June 5, The Times said: "... what Mr. Nixon is now receiving is a Washington variant of lynch law, and ... while he may or may not be innocent, he may never be proved guilty by a process so clearly lacking in justice."

Cox, the special Watergate prosecutor, advanced similar arguments in urging that the Ervin Committee's televised hearings be suspended or sharply restricted. "While it is impossible to judge at this time the precise impact of this publicity on the conduct of the forthcoming (court) cases," he declared, "there is, at the least, a significant possibility that the committee's recommendation will imperil the government's ability to empanel an unbiased jury for the trial of any offenses charged."

And now Agnew. "The committee, I am sad to say, can hardly hope to find the truth and can hardly fail to muddy the waters of justice beyond redemption," the Vice President said on June 11. "There is no question whatever that some men despite their innocence will be ruined by all this, even though I am sure the Senate intended nothing of the kind when it commissioned the investigation."

Such fears are entirely legitimate. Past criminal cases involving massive doses of pretrial publicity have raised similar objections. For example, the Warren Commission's report on the assassination of President Kennedy conceded that "the people of the United States, and indeed the world, had a deep-felt interest in learning of the events surrounding" the fatal shooting. "However," it added, "neither the press nor the public had a right to be contemporaneously informed by the police or the prosecuting authorities of the details being accumulated against" Lee Harvey Oswald, Kennedy's accused killer.

The debate set in motion by the Warren Commission was the most strenuous public discussion of free press and fair trial since a joint committee of newsmen and lawyers took up the same question after the trial of Bruno Richard Hauptmann in 1935 for the kidnapping of the Charles A. Lindbergh baby.

Around 300 reporters, including some prominent novelists, covered the Hauptmann trial. Broadway columnist Walter Winchell pronounced the defendant guilty before the trial began. Other commentators did so before it had ended. The jury reached the same conclusion and Hauptmann was executed.

☆ ☆ ☆

The foregoing cases raised, as Watergate does today, a constitutional dilemma. The First Amendment guarantees the right to freedom of speech and press, while the Sixth Amendment affirms the right to an impartial trial by jury. In extraordinary criminal cases, these two rights often come into conflict.

Record Industry's Drug Payola

WASHINGTON — Has the agony of Watergate taught us nothing about how to handle scandal?

The Columbia Broadcasting System, a corporation active in many businesses, earned $82 million last year. Its fastest-growing profit center, which accounts for nearly 30% of its earnings, is the division that produces CBS records and tapes.

CBS is by far the largest producer of records and tapes in the youth-dominated music world, an industry that takes in revenues of $2 billion a year — more than all professional sports and the entire film industry combined.

The corporate corruption being investigated includes the old-fashioned payola — bribery to disc jockeys by record companies — with a new, ethnic wrinkle: One CBS records executive has reportedly told a grand jury that $250,000 in cash has been slipped to disc jockeys who direct their programming to black audiences.

But the return of payola, even on an unprecedented scale, is not the whole story: Federal investigators are looking into the use of hard drugs — cocaine and heroin — by the businessmen of music to bribe their distribution outlets, or to entertain their entertainers.

☆ ☆ ☆

The Federal Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs unearthed the first lead while investigating Pasquale Falcone, a reputed New Jersey mobster, indicted on drug charges Feb. 7. He turned out to be sharing an office with a former promotion man at Columbia Records, whose papers led to David Wynshaw, until recently director of artist relations at CBS records group.

Since that time, at least three official investigations have been launched into the use of cocaine and other drugs as a new form of payola in the music business, along with Mafia infiltration of the music industry's distribution system.

Beginning what may be the second most massive cover-up of the last 12 months, CBS fired its records division president, Clive Davis, charging him in a curious lawsuit with the music world's equivalent of spitting on the sidewalk: bilking the company of $94,000 in phony expenses.

The cancer in the music business is not in padded expense accounts, and the panic-stricken men who head CBS today know it; the cancer is what killed singers Janis Joplin and Jimi Hendrix — the new currency of the record industry, hard drugs.

What action has CBS taken so far? To build a defense against stockholder lawsuits, it has fired and sued Davis; to give the appearance of self-investigation, it has asked its regular law firm — Cravath, Swaine & Moore — to poke around, but the presiding partner of the law firm is Roswell L. Gilpatric, who also happens to be one of the best and the brightest members of the board of directors of CBS.

The men at Black Rock (as the dark granite structure that houses CBS headquarters is affectionately called) could not be more dunderheaded. Instead of building legal barricades and bringing in "old faces" to run CBS Records, CBS chairman and chief executive officer William Paley should turn to the men at CBS best equipped to ferret out facts and expose scandal.

☆ ☆ ☆

I'd like to hear Dan Rather cross-examine an official of the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs about what is known so far, and to watch Dan Schorr on the steps of the courthouse in Newark reporting the latest leaks from the grand jury room on the penetration of the record industry by Mafia drug peddlers.

A great many Americans would gain confidence in our system if they were to hear Walter Cronkite narrate a hard-hitting documentary — "The Selling of Rock Music" — which would pull no punches about the involvement of smooth-faced, Madison-Avenue executives in the illegal passage of Hash, and would skewer those who claim as justification some perversion of loyalty to the team.

Let the journalists of CBS news cover the story of CBS Records in depth, Mr. Paley — and after they have finished, you can take a few minutes of your own for "instant analysis."

Grand Island — Live it!

That's the approach to teaching Nebraska history and folklore being taken by Nebraska Wesleyan folklorist Roger Welsch and Stuhr Museum cultural director Hal Holoun here this summer.

Beginning July 9, 30 students in two sessions, each a week long, will learn about life on the prairie just the way the pioneers did — by living it.

Stuhr Campus

A cluster of four log buildings near a channel of the Wood River, near the reconstructed prairie village on the Stuhr Museum grounds, will become the "Stuhr campus" of Nebraska Wesleyan University.

The two organizers have dubbed the principal log cabin, built by a German settler named Menck in 1857, "Old Main." Its logs, missing much of their chinking but still sturdy, will provide shelter for instruction — but only when the weather is bad. "We'll spend as much time as possible out under the trees," Welsch says.

Welsch, who recorded an album of Nebraska folk songs entitled "Sweet Nebraskaland," will likely sing a few, and sprinkle in a few whoppers from his collection of plains tall tales, "Shingling the Fog and Other Plains Lies." Above all, he says, the atmosphere will be informal, and participation will be the key.

"These people can provide as much expertise as they can take away," he says, "because they are repositories of folklore themselves."

Typical Meals

Those students daring enough will sleep in the log cabins, although Welsch expects many will find lodging in town. A well will be sunk on the grounds, and meals of typical pioneer, ethnic and Indian foods will be cooked three times a day on "Old Main's" authentic frontier wood stove, burning corn cobs and (of course) the pioneer's ingenious remedy for the fuel crisis: cow chips.

"These things had an infinite variety of adjustments," Welsch says of the stove. "Cooking on them was a highly developed thing." Among the recipes to be prepared are such frontier delicacies as vinegar pie, dandelion coffee, popcorn pudding, fried corn mush, jerked beef, roastin' ears, and homemade ice cream.

Under Welsch's tutelage, students will also forage for the wild foods which abound in the area, such as Jerusalem artichokes, cattails and milkweed — and may try their hand at making jelly from wild chokecherries, plums or grapes.

'Getting the Feel'

Stuhr museum and its 1890's farm-village complex provide a "perfect laboratory" for investigating pioneer life that is "available nowhere else," Welsch said. Living on it for a week will provide "an opportunity to really get the feel of what some of these songs and legends were about. These people won't ever be able to read Mari Sandoz or Will Cather without feeling much closer to what they're reading."

Besides the Oregon, Mormon and Stagecoach Trails, Welsch says, the log cabin is located "within spittin' distance" of buffalo trails, the Pawnee migration route, Texas cattle trails. "Sam Bass probably rode within shouting distance of where we're standing," he added. "Or Sweet Betsy from Pike. Certainly wagons rolled right through here."

The idea for the course emerged last spring when Welsch served as a brewing consultant at a "living museum" at the Plimoth Plantation in Plymouth, Mass. "We lived and ate pilgrim-style," Welsch said. "Instead of just seeing the things, you see the processes, the actions. I don't think I could ever again think of 17th century pilgrim life without feeling close to it. I thought we ought to do the same thing here."

Holoun has been handling applications and registration, procuring supplies, lining up visits to other historical museums in the area, and arranging college credit. Wesleyan is offering four hours credit for attending the workshop and writing a paper on some aspect of Nebraska history or folklore, to be handed in to Welsch in the fall.

Expansion Eyed

"We're thinking of continuing and expanding it next year," Holoun said of the workshop. This year's project is funded with $5,000 from the state and an equal amount from Stuhr. Next year the enterprising pair of folklorists hope to have $180,000 in grant money from the U.S. Bicentennial Commission to establish a "living farm" — a typical 1876 farm, complete with 1876 livestock backbred from current breeds, authentic tools and machinery — and a staff to operate it.

"The principal work would be research," Welsch said. "What we need is to get people out to interview people who lived in sod houses. What were in the buildings? How many things were used, and how were they used? What were the seasonal changes in foods? How was a farmstead laid out?"

Till then, only 30 people will get the chance to sample prairie life first-hand, and both workshops are already filled. Welsch's "flash" while cooking flapjacks on "old Main's woodburner a few weeks ago is typical of what he hopes his students will experience.

"I had batter all over me and utensils were everywhere," he said. "Suddenly those lines from "Old Sod Shanty on the Claim" occurred to me:

'My clothes are plastered o'er with dough, I'm looking like a fright,
'And everything is scattered round the room.
'But I wouldn't trade the freedom that I have here in the West
'For the fable of that Eastern man's old home.'

"Those words took on new meaning."

Various Reasons Given For Sierra Club Tramp

By STEVE WIGODSKY
Norfolk News

Norfolk (AP) — An education for urban residents in the ways of rural farm and ranch life, conservation and environmental awareness are benefits of a weekend hike along the Elkhorn River.

Members of the Missouri Valley-Omaha Sierra Club wandered for about eight miles through grassland, small timber stands, cropland and waded across the Elkhorn.

"I think it is a positive thing," said Ted Hoffman, chairman of the Omaha group.

"We want people to stop, think and study problems before going ahead with something."

Geology Technician

Hoffman has retired from the Air Force and works as a geology technician for an Omaha civil engineering and geological consulting firm.

"The Sierra Club is still a wilderness preservation organization to many people. Now, and for several years, we have entered into legitimate environmental impact questions," he said.

"Locally we must concentrate on local issues. To the Omaha group at this time our biggest issue is inadequate urban open space. We hope to work with MAPA (Metropolitan Area Planning Agency) and the Riverfront Development on this," Hoffman said.

The Omaha group will join Lincoln and outstate groups this fall to organize a new chapter of the California-based organization. At present each group is affiliated with the Rocky Mountain Chapter. A new chapter needs at least 300 members and the Nebraska chapter will have over 400, Hoffman said.

19 Go On Hike

The Elkhorn River excursion gave 19 hikers, from age two onward, a chance to see some of the local problems and occasional solutions to environmental or conservation issues. Some just like the opportunity to hike, camp and enjoy the outdoors with persons seeking the same type of relaxation.

"We came here because of the interesting presentation Bob Warrick, Meadow Grove, weekend host and vice chairman of the Lower Elkhorn Natural Resources District) gave at the last group meeting," said Gary Bayless, Bellevue.

Louise Turner, Omaha, said her hike was a chance to "get away from it all. It refreshes and renews me for going back to work." Miss Turner is secretary of the Omaha group and teacher in an Omaha area mental retardation program.

Most of the hiking families rode back to Meadow Grove Sunday morning. Some made the 24-mile trek on foot.

Businessmen Aren't Satisfied With Court

Sidney (AP) — Although the purpose of the Small Claims Court is to settle legal disputes involving $500 or less without the expense of hiring a lawyer, many local businessmen have become disillusioned with its effectiveness.

"When they were going to set up the Small Claims Court, we (businessmen) were told it would help us collect unpaid bills cheaply," Mrs. Lena Cook, owner of the House of Flowers, said. "But I just don't think it's any good at all.

The Cooks have tried and won four cases in the Small Claims Court since its beginning January 4, 1973. They still had trouble collecting the bill.

"We've never even gotten paid for one of them," Mrs. Cook explained. "I don't know, maybe some have been luckier than we have."

Other local businessmen expressed the same doubts about the court.

One North Platte businessman won a $450 judgment against a local man and agreed to accept $25 per week until the balance was paid. When the man fell several months behind schedule, the businessman took steps to garnish his wages.

Other Sidney residents have expressed the same idea: that even if you win in Small Claims Court, you still can't collect back bills.

Judge Sydney Finch of the Small Claims Court said he feels more like a referee than a judge. The Small Claims Court is an informal procedure where lawyers are not used. The judge attempts to help both parties present their side of the dispute.

"Often the plaintiff doesn't get all he's asking because usually a person has a reason for not paying the bill," Finch said.

"It's rather naive to expect someone you know hasn't got the money to pay a bill simply because you threaten to take him to the Small Claims Court," he said.

Water District Gets $2,050,000 Loan

Washington (AP) — Nebraska's Otoe County Rural Water District No. 3 has been loaned $2,050,000 by the U.S. Farmers Home Administration, Rep. Charles Thone, R-Neb., announced Thursday. The district will use the funds to build a water system to serve more than 750 homes, farms and businesses in central and western Otoe County and in the middle of Cass County. Included will be the villages of Douglas, Otoe, Manley and Avoca. Livestock production will be benefitted on about 400 farmsteads. The system will be built with sufficient capacity to serve other communities, Thone said.

Good Samaritan Home Addition Favored

Beatrice (UPI) — The Beatrice Health Planning Council has accepted a proposal from the Evangelical Good Samaritan Society, sponsores of Good Samaritan Home in Beatrice, for a 40-bed addition to the present 93-bed facility for intermediate care patients. The total project cost is estimated at $281,329. A task force of the council recommended against proposals from Davenport Construction Co. of Sioux City, Iowa, for an 85-bed facility. Also rejected was a 76-bed proposal by Frank Spave of Wahoo. The task force also recommended that one administrator be selected by both Beatrice hospitals to develop a more efficient medical facility.

Mrs. Kiplinger Marks 106th Birthday

Holdrege (AP) — Mrs. Fred Kiplinger, who resides in the Christian Homes, celebrated her 106th birthday Thursday. Mrs. Kiplinger came to Phelps County when she was 18 years old and has lived here since then. Her daughter, Mrs. Ruth Sayler of Nice, Calif., was on hand for her birthday.

Consolidated Law Plan Favored

Stapleton (AP) — The Logan County board of commissioners has approved a proposal to establish a consolidated law enforcement system in the county. Operating under the direction of the sheriff's office, the county law enforcement department would provide protection to the county's two towns — Stapleton, which is the county seat, and the village of Gandy, several miles to the east. Sheriff Art Wiley said the proposal must now be approved by the State Crime Commission.

$400,000 Development Bond Approved

Columbus (AP) — The Platte County Board has approved a $400,000 industrial development bond issue to allow Henke Machine Co. of Columbus to construct a new 45,000-square-foot plant here. The new structure will be used to manufacture trailer-or-truck-mounted seed mixers, quick mixers, seed storage bins, feed grain mills and seed handling equipment.

Beard Growing Contest Winners Told

North Platte (AP) — Here are the winners of Thursday's beard growing contest during Nebraskaland Days festivities: Ray Eisele, Juniata, fullest beard; Dr. Bill Burford, North Platte, best groomed beard; and Robert Clark, North Platte, best mustache. Plaques were presented to the winners by Judi Upton, the new Miss Nebraskaland Days.

Fuel Situation Said Critical

Rockville (UPI) — A Rockville fuel company owner, faced with the prospect of not receiving any fuel for at least a week, said his situation is "getting pretty critical." Sam Sullivan, owner of Sullivan Oil Co., said he regularly serves about 25 farmers and "they want relief. I don't know what these farmers are going to do."

Car Fatality Is Schuyler Woman, 49

By The Associated Press

A 49-year-old Schuyler woman was killed Thursday when the car she was driving was struck by a Union Pacific freight train. The victim was identified as Marian G. Bridgeford.

The accident occurred at a street crossing in Schuyler.

Authorities also released a delayed report of a traffic fatality.

Erwin Carter, 45, of Blair was killed April 2 in Blair. Officials said he died of injuries sustained when he fell from a truck in which he was riding.

Grant To Help Fight Dirty Air

Washington (AP) — Nebraska will step up its efforts to combat air pollution in the next year through an Environmental Protection Agency grant of $109,125 to the state, Rep. Charles Thone, R-Neb., announced Thursday.

The grant for the year beginning July 1 compares with one for $77,472 for the current year.

The increase will be used to hire two additional staff members and to purchase five pieces of high-volume air sampling equipment, Thone said.

Nebraska Business Growth Said Strong

Nebraska business activity continued to show a strong pattern of growth in March with the overall dollar-volume index increasing 3% from February, according to the Bureau of Business Research at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

The February to March increase in overall dollar-volume can be largely attributed to a sharp rise in the agricultural index, up 16.5%. This can be attributed to a 9.4% increase in agricultural prices during the period, according to Business in Nebraska, published monthly by NU.

Among the nonagricultural sectors of the Nebraska economy, there was a small increase from February to March in the distributive index and the government index, a small decline in the manufacturing index, and a large drop in the construction index, down 9.7%.

During the first quarter of 1973, the Nebraska economy kept up fairly well with the strong pattern of national growth. The Nebraska dollar-volume index increased 12.5% in the first quarter of 1973 compared to a year ago while the national index went up 13% during the same period.

If it were not for the strength of the agricultural sector (particularly agricultural prices), however, Nebraska probably would be lagging well behind in the current national income boom, NU business researchers point out. The state nonagricultural dollar-colume index rose only 9.7% from the first quarter of 1972 to the first quarter of 1973 while the national index increased 12.6%.

Nebraska still has relatively large fluctuations in income because of its heavy dependence on agriculture, a relatively uncertain source of income. The fluctuations in agriculture, however, usually are not closely related to national business cycles.

Rising retail sales continue to be an important factor in the expansion of business activity in Nebraska. Total retail sales in Nebraska were up 13.5% in March compared to a year ago. The state increase in retail sales from the first quarter of 1972 to the first quarter of 1973 also was up 13.5%.

Here is a summary of Nebraska's net taxable retail sales by regions (unadjusted for price changes).

Budig Named President Of Illinois State

Dekalb, Ill. (UPI) — Gene Budig, 34, vice president and dean of Illinois State University the past year, and former executive assistant to the governor of Nebraska, Thursday was named to succeed David K. Berlo as president of ISU.

The appointment is effective July 1.

Action was taken by the board of regents in a meeting here. Berlo, 44, who held the post less than two years, resigned in a telegram to the board May 29 after criticism of his administration of university affairs and of the financing of various projects.

Budig was named president for an unspecified period that would extend through the school's search for a permanent president. Robert Barr, regents' chairman, said the appointment will in no way jeopardize Budig's rights to consideration as permanent president by a search committee to be made up of faculty, staff members, students and others.

Gene Budig

The resignation of Berlo, who was present at the board meeting, came after an Illinois legislative education subcommittee held hearings on the ISU campus to investigate financing of the president's home. There were allegations that regulations were not followed in approving contracts for construction of the residence, and that various food supplies were charged to his entertainment expense account.

Budig came to Illinois State from the University of Nebraska, where he was director of public affairs and professor of educational administration, as well as corporation secretary for the Nebraska board of regents. He served as administrative assistant to the Nebraska governor from 1964 to 1967. He is a native of McCook, Neb.

In announcing Budig's appointment, the Illinois board commissioned Berlo to spend September and October in preparing a report on changes in program and organizational structure during his presidency, along with his evaluation of changes that have taken place and recommendations for the future.

"I am pleased at the selection of Gene Budig as president," said Berlo. "I had recommended him among others to the board. I feel we made the right decision last June when we brought him here as vice president, and I think the board has made the right decision now in asking him to serve as president."

"This is not a time for retrenchment," said Budig in a statement to the board. "Rather it is a time for reasoned, responsive movement forward."

Budig's salary in the new post will be $36,000.

Budig is currently serving a two-week stint as a captain with the Nebraska Air National Guard. He is a navigator.

POSTCARD by Stan Delaplane

San Francisco — We are off to New York and then to Ireland. Moppets and all. School is out. I said: "How about that? I won't have to do your homework for two whole months!"

Foggy mornings around here. Overhead, above small boys' play war, the real war jets scream through the clouds. A brief flash of delta wings and it disappears into the mist.

Up there the war pilot is buttoned in. Attached by umbilical pipes and wires to oxygen and radio and heat.

The whistling jet is loaded with real bang. The firing button under the thumb.

The boys in the backyard pointed their guns. "Bang! You're dead," they said.

***

Television seeks the piggy bank pennies of this younger set. "Mom, buy me that!"

Karate chops are broken by commercials offering cars that run on plastic tracks.

The kids who buy these things — (or con their chopped father into buying them) — don't want Alice-in-Wonderland. They want pow! Klonk! Zowie! Zap!

The smallest boy said: "How do you torture prisoners?"

I said: "I whack their bottoms until they cry for mercy."

He grabbed my little finger and tried to twist it off — crack! He learned that on Spiderman. For a long time we had Batman every night. I had dreams of being tied to a log while the child fed me into the buzzing saw.

***

TV is educational for young and old. We must live with the times. Children who learn to break your little finger are one of the hazards.

War games in the backyard. "Fire!" Bang! (The guns are so real looking, you tend to duck when they're pointed at you.)

I said: "Don't shoot. I am poor, old retired veteran. I wouldn't harm a fly."

The machinegun stuttered—it makes a real noise: Uh-uh-uh-uh-uh-uh!

"You're dead," they said.

(There's a toy gun that makes a bang so loud it can make a child deaf. A government agency is looking into it.)

***

Well, the right hand little finger is a little twisted. But I only use it for the letter "p". Maybe I can choose all words without "p" in them.

Psych — ouch! Head shrinkers say that returning veterans should go through a course of decontamination. Have their built-in violence removed. Like sentry dogs trained for combat. (We don't bring them home. We shoot them.)

***

Play war is fascinating stuff for boys. Probably makes real war more glamorous for big boys.

Glamor is what gets the recruits for the elite corps. The attack forces landing on the deadly beach. Dropping from the sky on an exploding field.

From "bang! you're dead" to the real bang and the real dead is a matter of ten short years. And then will Johnny come marching home again?

***

Otherwise a peaceful morning at the breakfast table. The smallest boy sneaked up behind me. He gave me a karate chop in the back of the neck — pow!

Got me right while I had the coffee cup to my lips — pow!

The moppet absorbs this. He practices a few chops on the cat. Then he sneaks up and gives it to The Man with the Creaking Back. POW!

No hardier way to start the day than a stiff-fingers jab in the kidney. Ouch!

When I was playing cops-and-robbers our weapons were play pistols. Or a pointed finger would do: "Stick 'em up!"

It was harmless stuff. Now small boys look at TV and learn how to grind a heel into your instep. (So to work, limping.)

NWU Professor Preparing To Pursue Solar Eclipse

By The Associated Press

Carroll Moore is packing his bags to pursue another eclipse of the sun.

The Nebraska Wesleyan University physics professor leaves Sunday to join a 10-day eclipse cruise to permit a view of the June 30 total eclipse from off the coast of Mauritania.

At a point near the border of Mali and Mauritania, the sun will be in total eclipse for seven minutes and four seconds. Aboard the cruise ship, Moore expects about six minutes of totality.

It will be another 177 years before an eclipse of this duration occurs, and that one will be visible only from a point in the northern Pacific Ocean where viewing conditions are less than the best, Moore said.

The advantage of a cruise ship "is the ability to move out of cloudy conditions," he noted.

Moore knows about the cloud problem. In one of his pursuits of a solar eclipse, he traveled to a remote outpost in Canada by logging train, slept in a box car, and then missed the whole show because of clouds.

He began recording eclipses in the early 1950s when one was visible in Nebraska. He uses slides of the eclipses he has witnessed in his astronomy classes at Wesleyan.

14 Parole Requests Granted

By The Associated Press

Fourteen inmates at the Nebraska Penal Complex received parole from the State Parole Board Thursday.

The only inmate denied parole was Angelo Allen, 41, of Washington, who is serving a 10 year sentence from Douglas County for robbery.

Parole for two inmates was deferred. They were Daniel R. Smith, 44, of Hastings, serving a 33-50 year sentence for first degree murder from Adams County, and Derrold D. Keys, 37, of Halsey, serving a 20-35 year sentence for second degree murder from Lancaster County. Both men had originally received life sentences, but had them commuted by the pardon board.

Another case, that of Junior James Salanitro, 30, of Omaha, who is serving 35-40 years for kidnapping from Douglas County, was referred back to the Pardon Board for further commutation. He had already had his life sentence reduced.

Penitentiary inmates paroled, with offense, county from which sentenced and term of sentence, included:

James Ralph Birt, 46, Ohio; forgery; Custer; 1-3 years.

Donald E. Anthony, 20, Omaha; receiving stolen goods; Douglas; 2-3 years.

Robert David Beckwith, 43, transient; burglary, Douglas; 1-3 years.

Ronald L. Cater, 24, Minnesota; larceny from person; Douglas; 2-5 years.

James Lee Clayter, 24, Omaha; robbery, Douglas; 3-10 years.

Sterling Gatewood, 39, Omaha; second degree murder; Douglas; 19-30 years.

Ronald F. Heidvogel, 29, Omaha; attempted burglary; Douglas; 4-7 years.

James La Rosee, 37, Massachusetts; first degree murder; Douglas; 30-50 years.

George Earl May, 45, Michigan; issuing insufficient fund check, two counts, Douglas; 4-6 years.

James R. Stevenson, 25, Oklahoma; burglary, Douglas; 10 years.

Albert J. Davis, 27, Illinois; jail break; Hitchcock; 2-3 years.

Gary Leroy Wilbur, 32, Lincoln; manslaughter, Lancaster; 5-10 years.

Jerry Williams, 36, Nebraska; forgery; Lancaster; 1-2 years.

IRS Policy On Freeze Announced

Omaha (UPI) — The Internal Revenue Service Thursday announced its policy for freeze price listing and posting, effective Sunday.

James W. Friel, economic stabilization manager for Nebraska, said agents from the Internal Revenue Service will be performing spot checks throughout Nebraska next week to verify compliance with freeze price posting and record keeping requirements.

Under the new policy, each seller must maintain freeze price records for all commodities and services at the location where pricing decisions with respect to those items are ordinarily made.

The records must be made available upon request to economic stabilization program representatives, Friel said. Sellers are responsible for establishing freeze prices for each commodity and service.

In addition, all sellers must post in a prominent place at each place of business a sign announcing the availability of freeze price information.

Valley Hope Says No Competition

Lincoln Council on Alcoholism and Drugs Executive Director Bob Adams said Thursday that the Valley Hope treatment center in Kansas has pledged not to compete with an already-established Lincoln service for treatment of alcoholics.

But Adams said Valley Hope does intend to go ahead with plans to establish an office in Lincoln for purposes of follow-up contacts with its former patients.

Referrals from that office, said Adams, will go first to the local treatment center at Lincoln General Hospital.

Officials Worried

Lincoln officials became a bit worried several weeks ago when they learned that a Lincoln businessman had given Valley Hope a sizable gift to establish a Lincoln office.

It was feared that the office might lead to eventual establishment here of a Valley Hope treatment center.

But Adams said a recent meeting involving Valley Hope spokesmen and officials of Lincoln General Hospital had resulted in an agreement for cooperation between the two institutions in treatment of alcoholics.

Lincoln General is the site of a Chemical Dependency Unit that acts as this community's center for in-patient and out-patient services to alcoholics.

Adams said Valley Hope has "no intention to open an in-patient service in Lincoln."

Agrees To Wait

And he said Valley Hope had agreed, as a Council on Alcoholism subcommittee had asked, to wait till November to open the office it plans.

Adams said the office, with a counselor and a secretary, will serve 150 Lincoln-area people who have been treated at the Norton, Kan., center.

Adams is a co-founder of Valley Hope, but he has said he wanted to insure that the Chemical Dependency Unit was not threatened by another agency as the CDU attempts to build its patient load in Lincoln.

CDU has had some difficulty attracting patients, but the daily census picture there has been better in recent months.

Adams made his comments Thursday at a meeting of the Council on Alcoholism and Drugs and expanded them later in an interview.

In other matters, the council Thursday heard that three clients are now in residence at Full Circle, the council's drug contact and counseling center. Three others are expected to become residents there shortly, said Full Circle Director Olga Bom, as the council held its June meeting at the new drug facility.

Sen. Lewis Eyeing PSC Race

State Sen. Richard Lewis, a Holbrook rancher, said Thursday he is considering a challenge for the Public Services Commission seat held by chairman John Swanson of Eustis in the 1974 election.

"I'm just thinking along those lines right now," the 61-year-old Lewis told the Star. "I haven't definitely closed the door on running for re-election (to the Unicameral) yet."

In explaining his tentative bid for the commission, Lewis, who is just finishing his term as a senator, said he views his candidacy as "an opportunity to perhaps alleviate problems among ranchers and farmers in western Nebraska, particularly rates and tariffs."

While he was not critical of Swanson's performance on the commission, Lewis said he had "some thoughts" of his own on what the commission should be doing to help agriculture with grain transportation and rate problems.

"But I don't want to talk about that now," he said.

Lewis said the fact that a Public Services Commissioner earns $17,500 annually while legislators receive only $4,800 per year did not play a role in his tentative decision.

Nor, he said, was he dissatisfied with his first term in the Legislature.

"The people (in the Legislature) are great. As a member I've been able to take care of a lot of little problems encountered by people in my district. I've been able to provide service that has been appreciated."

Regarding the legislative salary issue, Lewis said, "As long as the salary in the Legislature remains at its present level, as a businessman I can't see why I should continue to subsidize the state."

"There's no way I can break even."

Lewis estimated it costs him $150 per month more than his legislative salary to serve in the Unicameral.

State Still Way Short Of Fuel

The State Purchasing Office still must find another 350,000 gallons of fuel oil if 11 state institutions are going to have heat this winter.

Two bids were opened Thursday and apparantly have solved fuel problems at the State Penitentiary and the Beatrice State Home. The Carter-Waters Corp. of Kansas City agreed to supply 400,000 gallons for Beatrice, and the E. L. Bride Co. of Kansas City will provide 450,000 gallons for the State Penitentiary.

Only the Carter-Waters Corp. mentioned a price in its bid — 15 cents per gallon, or up 30% over last year's price. Even then, the firm said its price may have to be adjusted upward at delivery time.

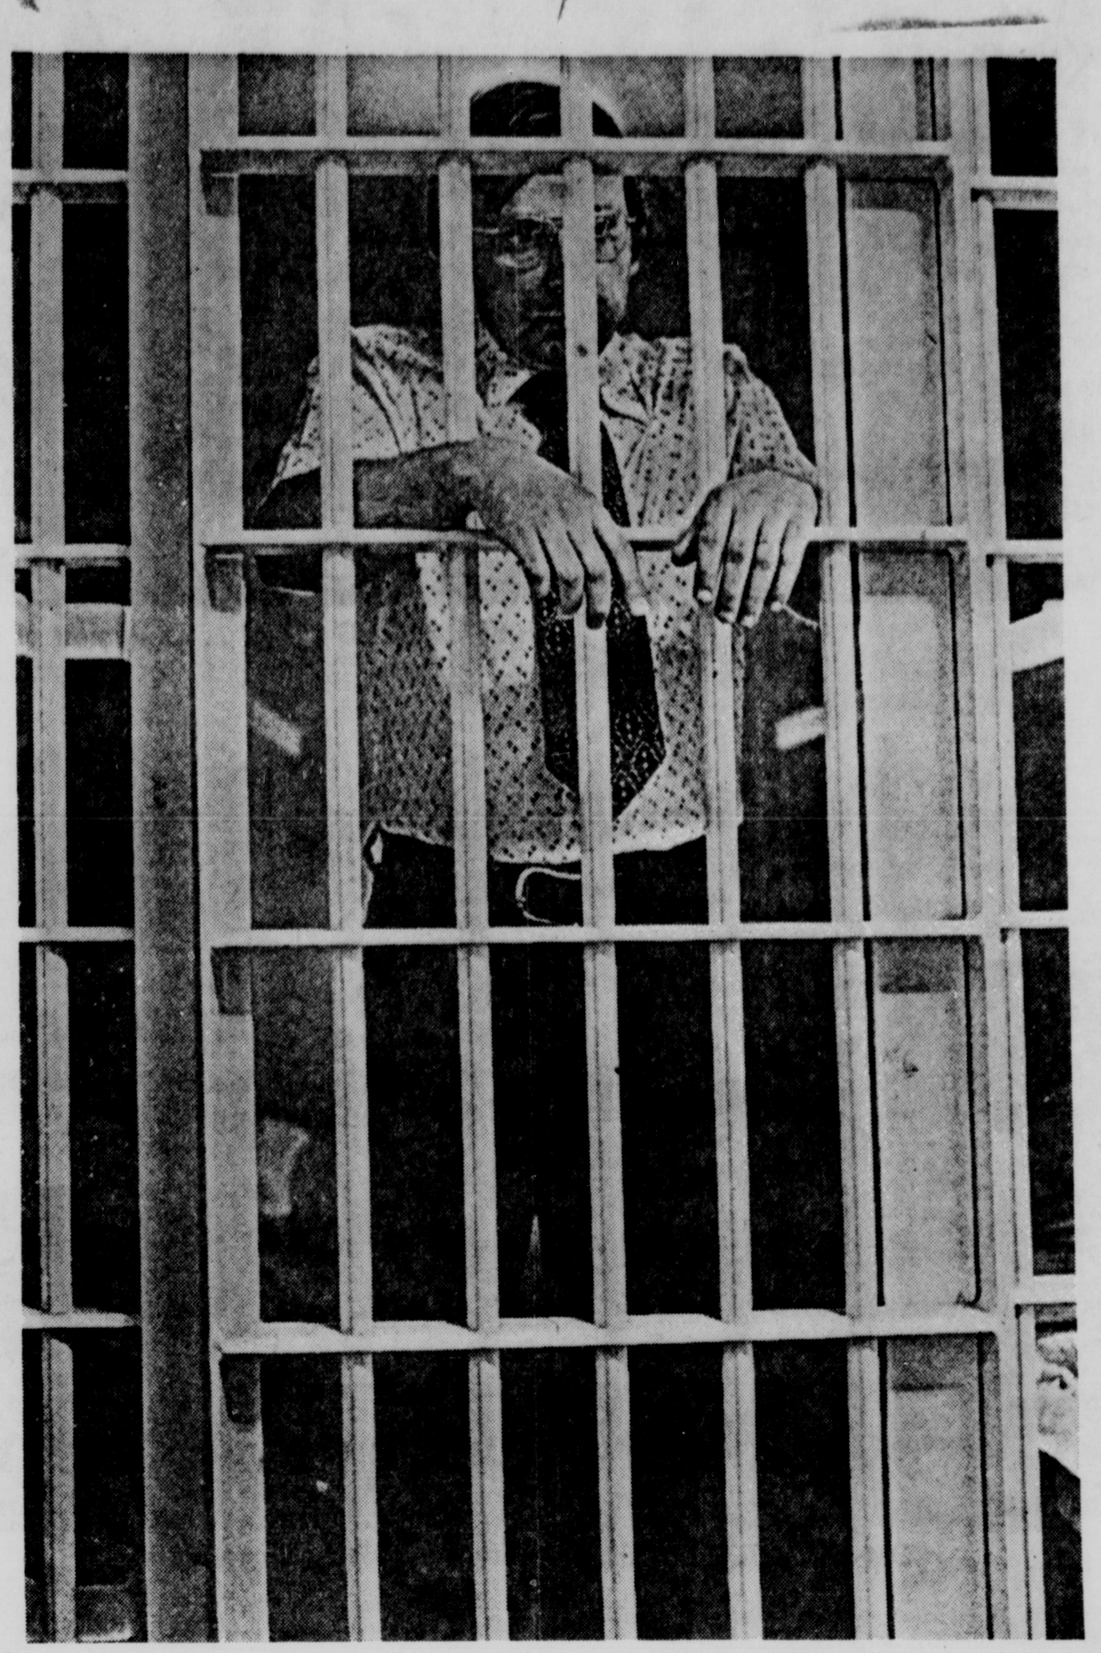

John Frye, a buyer for the purchasing office, said the state would have to negotiate on a day-to-day basis this winter to insure that all institutions have sufficient heat. Most of the 28 suppliers that were approached said they would make every effort to supply fuel oil to the state when it is available.

Charles Neal, a state purchasing agent, predicted, "Most days of the winter our institutions will have heat."

"We'll end up with fuel but not at what we would call a favorable price."

Neal added that he may reopen bidding at a later date to take advantage of any changes in the supply situation.

Those institutions still needing fuel contracts are: the Girls' Training School at Geneva, the Boys' Training school at York, the State Reformatory in Lincoln, the Lincoln Regional Center, the Veterans Home in Grand Island, the Hastings Regional Center, Services for the Visually Impaired in Lincoln, the Center for Children and Youth in Lincoln, the Air National Guard, the Labor Department and state offices in the Cengas building.

A new sound in town . . .

that'll blow your walls down!
(Available only from a Newfangler)

Chances are good that you've heard the new sound of Cerwin Vega but weren't aware of it at the time. The reason is because you were probably at a dance and it was reproducing those big, clean sounds of the group that was playing. The name Cerwin Vega is well known and thought of in Musician's Circles and now it is available in stereo speakers. .and so is its sound. The Cerwin Vega 24's pictured above, reproduce the biggest, boldest new sounds around and they accomplish this more efficiently than any other speaker available today. For example, we've matched the Vegas with a Pioneer 424 AM-FM receiver. The Pioneer 424 will have no problem driving the "Vegas" at near live rock concert sound levels in a good sized room. The system also includes the Garrard 42 M S turntable with base and M75 Shure cartridge.

The reporter behind bars. Is he fighting for his own rights? Or yours?

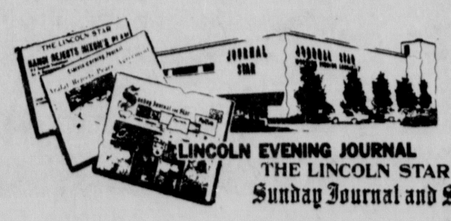

Why would a reporter choose the humiliation of imprisonment rather than reveal confidential material to courts or government agencies? It is not because his job is at stake. No reporter has been threatened with dismissal if he talked. No. Something much bigger is at stake here.

The good reporter and his editor know that their job, first and foremost, is to inform the public. To do this job properly, the reporter must look behind the official press release. He must learn his subject in as much detail and depth as possible. He must have access to special people with special knowledge on that subject.

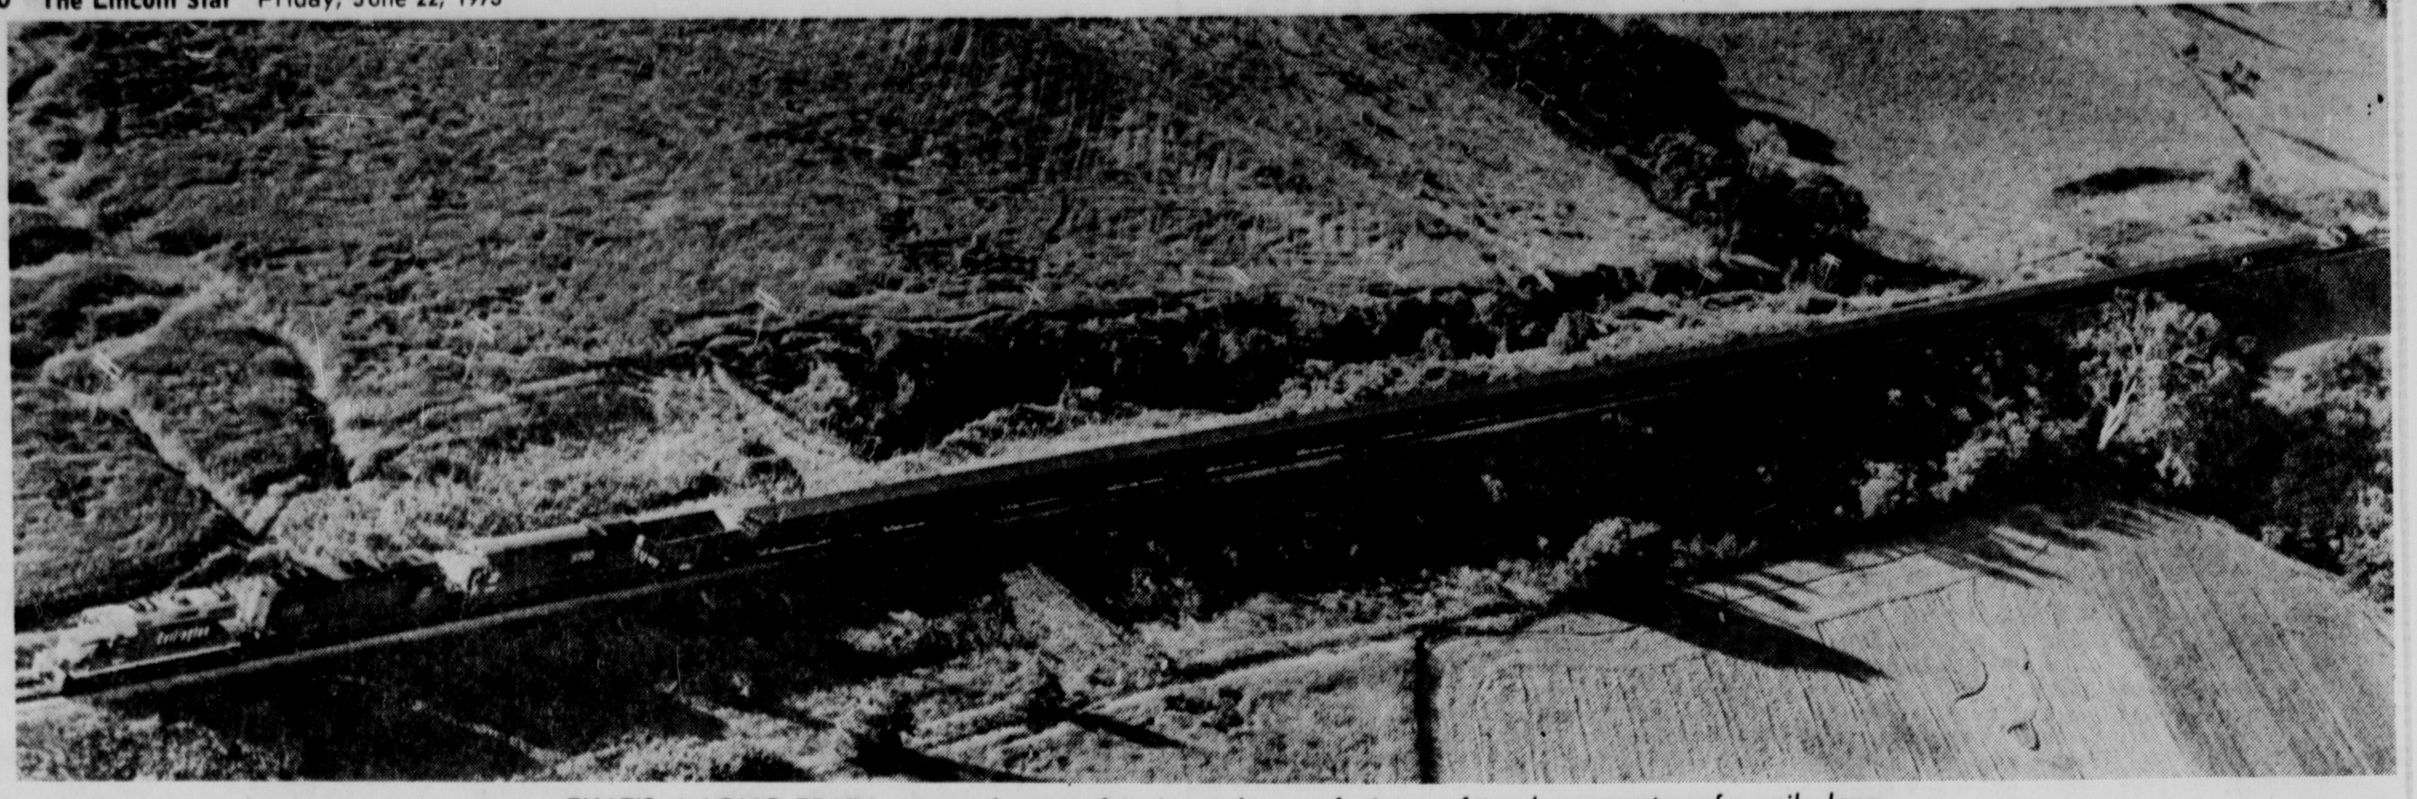

He knows, too, that unless he can guarantee his sources complete protection, they will soon disappear; and the public will be deprived of the facts it needs to make informed decisions. This is what the jailed reporter is fighting to protect. The public's right to know.

Some argue that not all journalists are responsible. And that absolute immunity might only encourage irresponsibility. When we weight the inestimable benefits of a free press against its inherent dangers, the choice remains clear.

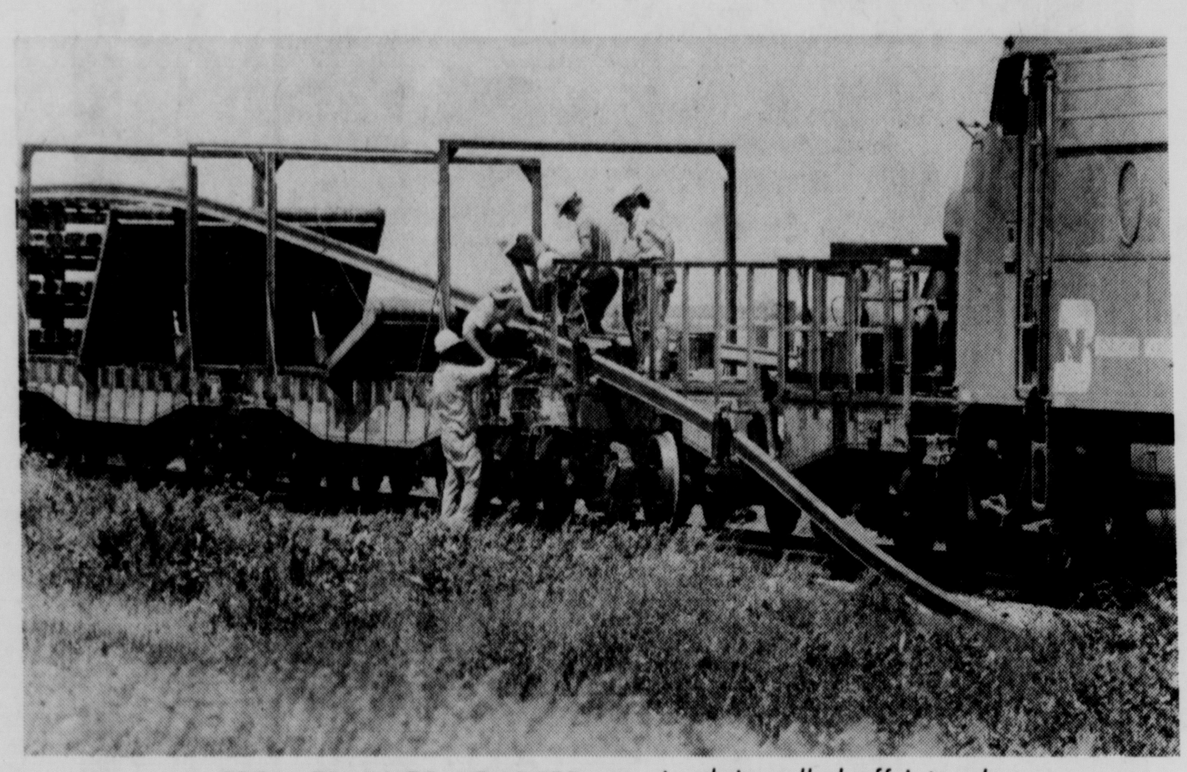

As the great French author, Albert Camus, stated it, "A free press can, of course, be good or bad, but without freedom it will never be anything but bad . . . Freedom is nothing else but a chance to be better, whereas enslavement is a certainty of the worse."

THAT'S A LONG TRAIN . . . and most of it is made up of pieces of track a quarter of a mile long.

FROM TRAIN TO ROADBED . . . track is pulled off into place.

By Machine And By Hand

There's a lot being done by machine, but still also a lot being done by hand as the Burlington Northern Railroad puts down 42.36 miles of new track on its line west of Friend.

A total of 79 men are working on the project during which eight trains of new track — each train carrying 40 pieces of track each nearly a quarter of a mile long — will be put down at a cost of $3.7 million.

The crew can lay about one mile of single track a day — a figure which takes into account frequent delays to allow trains to go through.

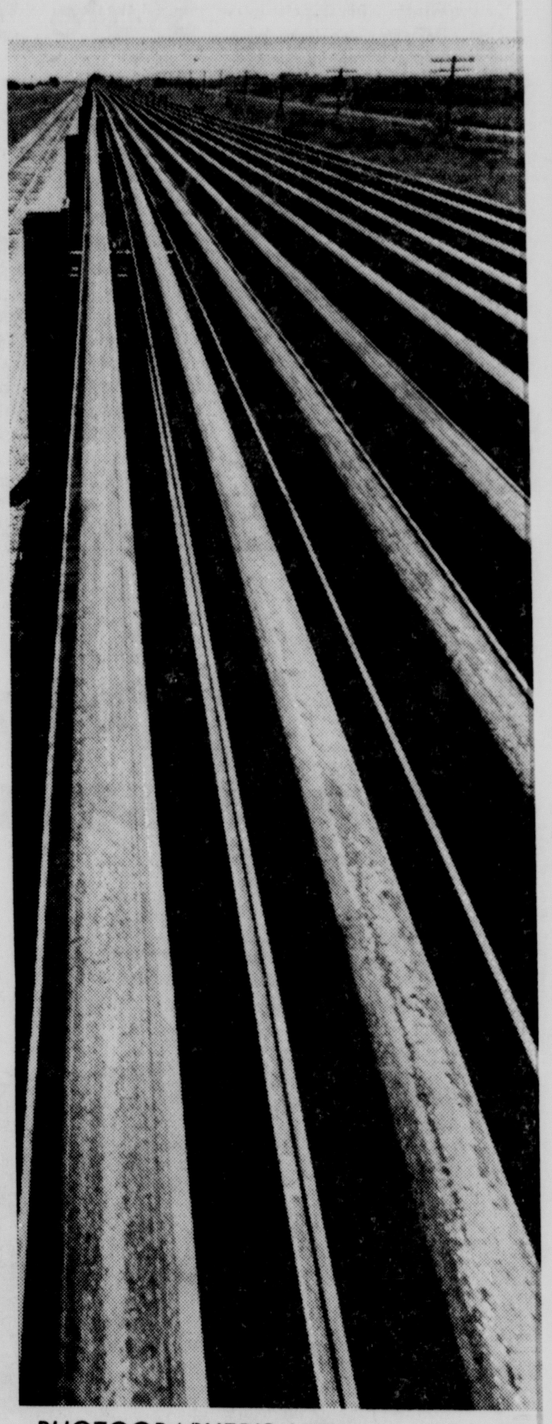

Track is taken from the long trains and put down one side at a time, and the work must be planned so that the track has no gaps and they are at one side whenever a train uses the track.

The entire project will take about four months to complete, Burlington Northern officials report.

Lighted City Diamond Sought For Semi-Pro-Type Baseball

A Lincoln man representing three "semi-pro-type" baseball teams in Lincoln Thursday appeared before the Lincoln Parks and Recreations Board in an attempt to find a place for the clubs to play in Lincoln.

"About 97% of our games have to be played out of Lincoln," John Arkfeld told the board. "It's hard to set up games when you can only go one way."

When questioned by board members, Arkfeld said that he had contacted American Legion officials about using Sherman field, but was told he would have to pay $50 per game.

Arkfeld also said that it was difficult to set up games at Seacrest field due to scheduling conflicts with high school teams.

Arkfeld told the board that the three teams in Lincoln have about 50-60 members between them and that next year there may be four to six teams of this type in Lincoln.

Ideally, he told the board, the three clubs would like to have one of the city ball diamonds lighted so the clubs could schedule night games.

Arkfeld said the three teams in Lincoln are the Lincoln 88's, Golden Learning Center and the Lincoln Athletic Club.

Clancy told Arkfeld that further meetings would be held with the club to see what steps could be taken.

"I think we can work this out," he said.

On a different topic, Recreations Superintendent Dick Leker presented a proposal to install pinball machines in city recreation centers.

Don Smith, director of Parks and Recreations, told the board that the staff felt that the pinball machines would attract youths to the center, where they could see other programs that are offered.

The board took no immediate action on the proposal. Board Chairman Clancy Woolman suggested that the department run a survey for several days at Antelope Park to find out if youths would be interested in playing the machines.

He also suggested the Leker contact other parks and recreations departments that offer the machines to find out how they have worked out.

The board gave its approval to plant 15-foot trees at tees at the Holmes Park Golf Course to Provide shade for Golfers.

Funds for the plans would come from the James H. Ager Memorial Fund — being held by the Lincoln Foundation for the Parks and Recreations Dept.

The board also heard a report from Dick Hilligus, director of parks, that attendance totals at the new Antelope Swimming Pool are much higher than they had been for the last few years at the former Municipal Swimming Pool.

Hilligus reported that property damage reported by Park Rangers during the month of May totaled only $200.

In other action the board re-elected Clancy Woolman as chairman and Max Roper as vice chairman.

Police Seeking 3 Young Males; Officer Struck

Lincoln police Thursday were searching for three young males who were allegedly involved in an incident in which Officer Dennis Richnafsky was struck on the head.

Richnafsky and a fellow officer were driving in their cruiser Thursday when they saw the three men disappear behind the Abel Construction Company maintenance garage at 1301 No. 19th.

The officers got out of their car to investigate and as Richnafksy was checking the area he was struck on the forehead with an unknown object.

Richnafsky was treated and released from Lincoln General Hospital.

Farmer Brings Blaze To Firth Fire Department

Defying tradition, a farmer brought the fire to the firemen recently, according to Richard Mulder, a fireman in the Firth Volunteer Fire Department.

Mulder said Dale Vandergriend, who lives on a farm about three and three-fourths miles from Firth, drove up to the fire station and had firemen put out a fire in the front seat of his Pontiac GTO.

Mulder said Vandergriend noticed the smoke in his car shortly after he parked the car at his farm after returning from a trip. Upon checking he found the front seat was smouldering.

Waiver Requested For Providence Fire Escape

State Fire Marshal Joe Pluta said Thursday he has asked the federal government to waive a requirement so that Providence Hospital can add an unenclosed fire escape, instead of an enclosed exit, to its west wing.

The addition of the extra exit to the west wing has been ordered to bring the hospital into compliance with the federal Life Safety Code.

After several months of debate with Pluta's office, Providence Hospital has reportedly agreed to construct an unenclosed metal fire escape from the second and third floors of its west wing to bring it into compliance with the federal rules.

However, federal regulations require an enclosed exit.

Pluta said he has endorsed the request for a waiver of the "enclosed" part as long as the hospital adds the fire escape and keeps it free of ice and snow.

Providence Hospital ran into difficulties with the fire marshal's office earlier this year over a 58-foot dead-end corridor on the second and third floors of the west wing. The federal Life Safety Code requires all hospitals having dead-end corridors over 30 feet in length to have at least two different direct exits. Providence, it was determined, had only one and was ordered by Pluta to install another.

The hospital protested and requested waivers at hearings on Feb. 9 and June 8; both were turned down.

Opinions from the state attorney general and the federal government upheld Pluta's order under the provision stating that dead-end corridors shall be accessible from at least two different directions.

Tom Bowen, administrator for Providence Hospital, said he is proceeding with estimates to attach outside fire escapes which are unenclosed.

Chamber Gets Donation To Replace Radial Fund

The Lincoln Chamber of Commerce received money from local businesses and banks to replace money spent opposing the controversial Northeast Radial Charter Amendment No. 2, defeated May 1, Glenn Bonacker, chamber president, announced Thursday.

In a press release, Bonacker said $5,010 was taken from the chamber's development fund in late April as part of $7,000 spent opposing the anti-Radial amendment. He said this was done in response to pleas for help from Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf, former mayors and City Council members.

Firms including Miller & Paine, Abel Investment Co., First National Bank, Lincoln Equipment Co., National Bank of Commerce, and Dobson Brothers Co. were listed as major participants by Bonacker.

The money given by these and 27 other firms and individuals would insure that budgeted programs of the chamber development fund would continue, Bonacker said.

Station Burglarized

Jerry L. Ossler of 1445 No. 56th reported to police Thursday a burglary at the Fina Service Station, 56th & Holdrege, late Wednesday night or early Thursday morning. Police said entry to the station was made by breaking a pane of glass in an overhead door. About $300 in cash was stolen.

Alumni Board Backs Liquor On NU Campus

University of Nebraska-Lincoln Chancellor James Zumberge's proposal to allow beer and liquor in dormitories on the Lincoln campus has received the support of the University of Nebraska Alumni Board.

At a board meeting last Friday, the 15 members voted unanimously to support Zumberge in his recommendation to be presented to the Board of Regents Saturday, according to John H. Miller, executive vice president of the Alumni Association.

Miller pointed out that Zumberge's proposal is for a one-year trial period and would not result in "bars opening up all over campus."

Miller said the board also backed the chancellor's request to have liquor catered into the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education.

Stock Dealing Suspension Set

A 90-day suspension of dealing in livestock under the Nebraska Livestock Dealers Licensing Act was ordered Thursday for LaVoy Orner of Lincoln by State Director of Agriculture Glenn Kreuscher.

Kreuscher said the action stemmed from Orner doing business as Midwest Livestock Sales under expired bonding and engaging in livestock dealing as Capital Livestock Sales Inc. without a license.

Unit Saves Tiny Lives

By Gracia Sieb
Star Staff Writer

At a basic charge of $32 plus an additional fee of approximately $2 per hour, not to exceed $79 a day, the price of using the neonatal unit at St. Elizabeth Health Care Center may seem astronomical.

But to a parent of an infant, often premature and in need of special respiratory or other intensive care equipment, the cost becomes secondary; especially when one considers that only a few years ago such facilities were unavailable to many Nebraska communities.

Since its inception Oct. 1, 1970, the unit has often been in the spotlight, and, according to Mrs. Jane Miller— clinical coordinator of obstetrics and gynecology — the unit is thoroughly equipped to treat any infant "small enough to fit in an isolette."

Included among the various types of apparatus employed by the neonatal team are heart and apneal monitors; a special respirator for newborns and an adult respirator adapted for infants; C-pap, an alternate means of respiratory support; five intravenous infusion pumps, which monitor the rate of fluid administered to the infant; seven intensive care isolettes; and oxygen analyzers, which monitor the concentration of oxygen introduced in the baby's lungs.

The unit also is equipped with two infant transporters, which are used when infants are transferred from other hospitals in Nebraska.

Mrs. Miller stated that the unit is staffed 24 hours a day, seven days a week by two professional nurses and additional technicians and aides, according to the unit census. The nurses, whose training usually entails from six months to one year experience in the neonatal facility, deal with high risk infants suffering from congenital problems or other abnormalities, premature infants or babies requiring some type of surgery.

Based on gestational age, Mrs. Miller noted that the youngest infants in the neonatal unit are about 28 weeks (born about two months premature) and weigh less than two pounds. The oldest the unit can accommodate is usually a full-term (40 weeks) baby up to two months old.

Of course, the principal aim of the neonatal team is the physical care of the infants. However, realizing that the emotional and psychological needs of the parents must be considered, Mrs. Miller stated that the staff encourages the parents to visit the unit as often as possible.

Mrs. Miller added that although the staff members would like to permit the parents to hold and fondle their children, it is not allowed simply "because the infants' energy levels are so low and their physical condition is at such a critical balance that often merely changing a diaper or life saving measures can tire them out."

By letting the parents assist with a feeding or change a diaper, they more easily adjust to the situation, and, according to Mrs. Miller, "the infants are given the love and sense of security which any child needs."

Nebraska high school students who have been attending the All-State fine arts program at the University of Nebraska, will present a series of free public concerts during the next several days.

On Sunday, June 24, members of the All-State Chorus are scheduled to perform a musical program in tribute to Nebraska author, Willa Cather. The group will be under the direction of Prof. Emanuel Wishnow, and Lincoln television personality, Leta Powell Drake, will serve as narrator.

The concert will begin at 3 p.m. in Kimball Recital Hall.

The All-State Band and Chorus will combine their efforts during a 7:30 p.m. concert to be held June 25 in Kimball. A variety of numbers ranging from classical to popular will be included on the program, which will be under the direction of Prof. Jack Snider, and Raymond Miller.

An evening of dancing and orchestra music is on the agenda for June 26. Highlighting the event, to be held at 7:30 p.m. in Kimball, will be three mini-ballets to be performed by All-State students specializing in dance.

According to dance instructor, Marie Sanwick, the recital will include a dance in the traditional classical style, a modern dance, and a jazz idiom dance.

Also participating in the performance will be Fred Methews, who spend the past year dancing with the Royal Winnipeg Ballet, and Michael Bruce who has recently studied dance in Holland.

The orchestra concert will be conducted by Prof. Wishnow, and will include selections by Anderson, Bizet, Hanson and Gold.

The final concert, to be performed Thursday, June 28, at 7:30 p.m. in the Sheldon Sculpture Garden, will feature the All-State orchestra, chorus and band.

Brownville Folklife Festival

The Brownville Fine Arts Association will be host to 40 craftsmen from the Midwest, who will demonstrate pioneer crafts in authentic settings throughout the Brownville historic area on Saturday and Sunday, June 23 and 24.

The exhibits will include chair caning and quilting in the Carson House; wood whittling and decoy-making in the Key Antiques shop; a village blacksmith shop next to the Carriage House Gallery; pioneer foods in Boettner Park; portrait painting at the Wheel Museum; and weaving and hairpin lace-making at the Tipton House.

Tickets for the Festival will be available at the tourist office and the various exhibits, which will be open to the public from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and 12 to 5 p.m. Sunday.

"Civilisation" Series at Sheldon

"Civilisation," Kenneth Clark's award-winning film series on the history of Western Civilization, will be shown at Sheldon Memorial Art Gallery auditorium this summer.

Sponsored by the Nebraska Union Program Council and the Sheldon Art Gallery, the series consists of 13 one-hour color films tracing the development of Western Civilization from the Dark Ages to the present day.

Two parts of the series will appear each week in a "double feature" format with a short intermission between films. Each week's program will be shown twice, Tuesdays at 7:30 p.m. and Sundays at 2:30 p.m. The films are free and open to the public.

The summer film schedule is as follows: Sunday, June 17, parts one and two — "The Skin of Our Teeth" and "The Great Thaw;" June 19 and 24, parts three and four — "Romance and Reality" and "Man — The Measure of all things;" June 26 and July 1, parts five and six — "The Hero as Artist" and "Protest and Communication."

July 3 and 8, parts seven and eight — "Grandeur and Obedience" and "The Light of Experience;" July 10 and 15, parts nine and ten — "The Pursuit of Happiness" and "The Smile of Reason;" July 17 and 22, parts 11 and 12 — "The Worship of Nature" and "The Fallacies of Hope;" and July 24 and 29, part 13 — "Heroic Materialism."

Photograph and Sculpture Displays

A grouping of black and white photographs, "Night Sea Journey" by Michael Di Biase, will be displayed at Sheldon Art Gallery through Saturday, June 30.

According to the artist, the photographs symbolize the various stages of development of the soul or spirit.

"Bird ladies," objects with the head of a bird and the body of a woman, highlight Susan Wright Eckenwalder's exhibition of ceramics and bronze and clay sculptures which are on display through July 8 at the Sheldon Gallery Art Shop.

Mrs. Eckenwalder, a visiting assistant professor in the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Art Department, said that because bird ladies evolved from many early cultures, they often reflect ritual and historic overtones.

dear abby — Don't Confess

DEAR ABBY: I am in the United States Air Force. I am a married man, but I have spent more time away from my wife than with her because I have been stationed overseas in places where dependents are not permitted.

I love my wife with all my heart and nothing could ever change that. We have had a good marriage in which we have always said that we would be absolutely truthful with each other. Well, that is my problem. I have failed in my part of the agreement.

I have told my wife that she was the only woman I have ever had an affair with. That's a lie. Before I was married, I had an affair with a married woman. While I was overseas I had two "one-night stands" with a different girl each time. They meant nothing to me. I can't even remember their names.

I have prayed for forgiveness and feel that Jesus has forgiven me, but I feel so guilty about lying to my wife. But if I told her the truth now she would never believe another word I said.

Should I confess these lies to her or not? Abby, you are the only person to whom I've told this.

At the bottom of your column in the Stars and Stripes it says: "Write to Abby, you'll feel better if you get it off your chest."

I think I do. Now tell me, should I tell my wife?

OFF MY CHEST IN GUAM

DEAR OFF: No, no, no! Confessing to your wife would only make her unhappy. You've confessed to Jesus. That's enough.

DEAR ABBY: There is an unwritten law of ethics among hairdressers. One operator does not deliberately steal another operator's patrons. If the customer herself decides to switch of her own accord, fine and dandy. But for an operator to try to lure away a co-worker's best-paying or most interesting customers is unethical.

As a shop owner who is also a hairdresser I have seen some excellent operators fall victim to such piracy and consequently lose their self-confidence. By the time the owner of the shop becomes aware of what has happened, the offending operators have made themselves so valuable to the shop that the owner can't afford to fire them.

How are the victims to fight back?

NAMELESS OUT WEST

DEAR NAMELESS: It's conceivable that a salesperson might successfully lure away a co-worker's customer. But it's highly unlikely that a hairdresser could "steal" a satisfied patron from a co-worker. If the patron can be "lured away," she's not satisfied, in which case it's her privilege to switch.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

First Area Couple Joins Air Force

HUSBAND AND WIFE . . . team, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Loyd join the Air Force. Captain Barbara McKenna gives oath.

When Ronald and Dianne Loyd took their oaths of enlistment in the United States Air Force recently, they became the first couple in the greater Lincoln area to begin their military careers as a husband and wife team.

They were able to do this as a result of a ruling handed down last July which permits married couples to join and serve in the armed forces together.

Ron, the son of retired Air Force Master Sergeant and Mrs. Marion C. Loyd of 260 W. Furnas in Lincoln, received his bachelor's degree in education from the University of Nebraska in 1971.

Dianne, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald DeFreese of 2649 No. Cotner, is a graduate of Lincoln Northeast High School.

Mr. and Mrs. Loyd have both enlisted in the Air Force's six-year program under which they were given guaranteed jobs.

Ron will pursue a career as a personnel specialist, and Dianne will be an administrative specialist.

After completing their six-week basic military training at Lackland Air Force Base, Tex., they will be promoted two grades, to Airman First Class.

According to Master Sergeant Garry Smedra, Mr. and Mrs. Loyd hope to be assigned to some of the overseas locations where Ron lived while growing up in an Air Force family.

Sgt. Smedra pointed out that there are approximately five couples in the Lincoln area who are currently in the pre-qualifying stage which precedes admission to the Air Force. He believes that the Loyds are the second Nebraska couple to complete joint enlistment in this particular branch of the armed services.

And, as Sgt. Smedra pointed out, couples enlisting come from all walks of life — registered nurses, persons with college degrees, high school graduates, newlyweds, and couples who are re-entering the military after some prior service experience.

In addition, he stated that many more women are now enlisting because virtually every career field has been opened to them.

Chit Chat with Roxi

Dear Roxi:

I have been having a terrible time with a guy I knew a long time ago. We ran into one another, unfortunately and he asked me out. Well, I didn't like him before and I don't like him any better now. I went out with him as a polite gesture, but now I can't get rid of him.

Kay R.

Dear Kay:

Tell him politely, but firmly that it was good to see him again, but that as far as anyting else, you feel it would be better not to start anything that just wasn't there, as far as you were concerned.

Bridge: A Bidding Quiz

Partner bids One Spade, next player passes, both sides vulnerable. What would you bid now with each of the following five hands?

1. ♠J843 ♥KJ6 ♦AJ9 ♣KQ9
2. ♠A65 ♥84 ♦A9872 ♣643
3. ♠10 ♥QJ762 ♦AKJ93 ♣Q5
4. ♠9852 ♥93 ♦Q8 ♣AK743
5. ♠Q87543 ♥10 ♦KJ94 ♣82

1. Two notrump. The choice lies between two notrump and three spades. Ordinarily, with four-card trump support, you'd jump to three spades (forcing) instead of two notrump (also forcing). But here the hand is so highly attractive for notrump — with probable double stoppers in all suits and 4-3-3-3 distribution as well — that it is better to aim for the nine-trick game.

This does not irrevocably commit you to notrump. If partner indicates a preference for suit play, you then show your spade support.

2. Two spades. This shows 6 to 9 points and trump support, which is precisely what you have. It is better to avoid a two diamond response, because partner might bid two spades and it would then be extremely difficult to choose between passing and bidding three spades. By raising spades directly, you place the decision on how far to go exactly where it belongs — in partner's lap.

3. Two hearts. This follows the principle of first bidding the higher-ranking of two five-card suits, regardless of the high-card strength in those suits. To bid diamonds first and hearts next would imply only four hearts and could result in missing a game or slam in hearts.

4. Two clubs. Here you're too good for two spades, showing 6 to 9 points, and not good enough for three spades, forcing, showing 13 to 15. Actually the hand is worth about 11 points, counting the trump fit and the two doubletons; in other words, it is worth two and a half spades.

These in-between hands are best described by bidding a side suit and then raising partner — even though he signs off by simply repeating his suit. This permits the bidding to die below game and simultaneously keeps the avenue to game open if partner wants to go on.

5. Four spades. This serves two purposes. First, there's a good chance for game, even though you have only 6 high-card points.

Second, and no less important, is the preemptive value of the leap to four. There is a substantial danger that the opponents can either make a game or discover a good sacrifice in hearts or diamonds, and the four spade bid might be just high enough to block them out.

France's Nuclear Force Lies Under Idyllic Fields

Apt, France (AP) — Invisible under the idyllic lavender fields, farmhouses and vacation villas, the missiles of France's nuclear deterrent stand poised at potential enemy targets more than 2,000 miles away.

Some 1,200 feet underground, two French officers keep a round-the-clock watch on the trigger, which can be pulled only on orders from the president of France.

Sensitive to growing criticism of the cost, environmental damage and reputed futility of the French nuclear strike force, military commanders recently took a group of newsmen on a tour of the silo complex hidden in the granite rock of the Albion plateau above this small town 40 miles north of Marseille.

It was the first time the ultrasecret underground launching site of 18 medium-range nuclear missiles had been opened to the press.

The base commander, Gen. Jean-Claude Coudert, disclosed that the government recently decided to resume construction work on nine more silos, stopped for economy reasons after the 1968 strikes and riots in France.

Coudert said the nine new missiles, each carrying an H-bomb warhead, will be operational by 1980. The existing 18 missiles carry atom bomb warheads, but are to be enlarged to H-bomb capacity at a later date.

The Albion base is part of a deterrent system which also includes nine squadrons of four Mirage IV supersonic jet bombers, each carrying one 70-kiloton atom bomb, and two nuclear-powered submarines each carrying 16 medium-range 450-kiloton rockets. Three more such submarines are planned.

"While the location of bombers and submarines can be kept secret, we had to abandon the idea of secrecy concerning the surface-to-surface missiles on such a limited territory as France," Coudert said. On the contrary, he added, the military leaders have decided to publicize the missile base, to strengthen its psychological effectiveness as a deterrent.

French officials have shown increasing concern that the nuclear deterrent, known here as the "Force de Frappe," or striking force, was not taken seriously enough by the French public as a effective element in dissuading a potential aggressor. French opposition and antiwar groups sometimes refer to the Force de Frappe, the treasured power dream of the late President Charles de Gaulle, as the French "bombinette — baby bomb.

"Once you have seen a nuclear explosion of the power we have here, you no longer speak of a bombinette," Coudert said. "Although we do not try to match the huge military strength of the big powers, we do believe in our potential deterrent."

Coudert dismissed the argument that Albion, France's only surface-to-surface missile base, could be destroyed instantly by a potential enemy.

"It would need an attack of 400 megatons — that is the equivalent of 400 U.S. Minutemen rockets exploding simultaneously — to blow up the entire installation, and even then the underground command post would not be totally destroyed," Coudert asserted.

The 18 existing silos are divided into two batteries of nine rockets each, each battery controlled by a command post buried deep in the mountainside. Two officers sit at electronic desks 24 hours a day, watching for a possible firing order from President Pompidou.

The command post is reached through a mile-long tunnel, which twists inside the mountain to reduce the shock waves of a nuclear attack. An electronic device automatically shuts off the tunnels and air vents in case of a nuclear explosion, to prevent radiation contaminating the command post.

The 18 silos are scattered under 88,000 acres of mountain pastures, small farms and vacation homes. The only sign of the 63-foot-high missiles visible from above are the concrete plates, weighing 140 tons each, which cover each silo. The remote-control command and maintenance base covers 1,000 acres and contains no missiles.

The first unit became operational in 1971 and the second a year later. Nuclear tests conducted previously by France in the Pacific are said to be aimed at miniaturizing the atom bomb and testing the future thermonuclear, or hydrogen, bomb.

The missiles at the Albion base are aimed at potential enemy targets — said to be cities — by a series of secret number codes. The officers in charge of the trigger do not know what the targets are and cannot stop a missile or change its course once it is fired.

The missiles have a range of 2,050 miles, and thus could easily reach Moscow, 1,600 miles away, but would fall far short of the 2,500-mile distant Ural Mountains and the Soviet Union's own presumed missile bases.

Unlike the surface-to-surface missiles, the rockets carried by the nuclear submarines have targets determined by the commander in each case. Their present maximum range is 1,500 miles, but the third submarine, to be commissioned next year, will have missiles with an 1,850-mile range. A fourth nuclear submarine, to be commissioned in 1976, will be the first to carry H-bomb warheads.

Two In The Hand . . .

Two in the hand are always worth more than two in the bush. Or so Mrs. Arlene Scheunemann seems to think Thursday as she holds two cats returned after being taken from the Colorado Springs, Colo. zoo last Friday. Five youths have been charged with the theft of the 2-month-old Ceylonese leopard (left), valued at $1,000 and the 4-month-old Golden Cat priced at $400.

Stein Says Phase IV Places Curbs On Gas, Food Prices

Washington (UPI) — Chairman Herbert Stein of the President's Council of Economic Advisers said Thursday that Phase IV, the control program to follow the current freeze, will contain "strong measures" to hold down food and gasoline prices.

Stein also said President Nixon decided to impose the current retail price freeze last week for a maximum of 60 days — a major reversal in his economic policy — for "psychological" reasons more than for its inflation-fighting benefits.

The idea, Stein explained in a 12-page paper titled "The Freeze and After," was to create "an emotional climate" that will set the stage for Phase IV. And the goal of that program, he said, is to slow price increases "to a rate at which the American people no longer regard inflation as the No. 1 national problem."

This means, he added, a lowering in inflation from the 9% of early 1973 to the "neighborhood" of 3% which existed throughout most of 1972, when the economy was under Phase II controls.

Stein conceded that the present freeze "will be tough on some people while it lasts." Some companies, slow in raising prices to offset higher costs, "will be stuck for awhile. . ," he said.

But he said the administration was busily preparing its Phase IV strategy "so that we can announce it as soon as possible." This indicated that the price freeze could be ended before the 60-day period expires.

Without detailing specifics, Stein outlined some of the general elements that will comprise the follow-up program to the freeze.

". . .Whatever the mechanism may be, Phase IV is obviously going to contain strong measures for holding down the rise of food prices. The President has given a similar directive for gasoline prices at the pump."

He said more companies will have to notify the government in advance of price increases, more of the economy will be covered by stabilization rules and more bureaucrats will be hired to run the Phase IV program.

Bank Reduces Small Loan Interest Rates

NEW YORK (AP) — First National City Bank said Thursday it was cutting by 15 per cent interest rates it charges on auto loans and personal installment loans for the duration of the current price freeze.

The nation's second biggest bank said that beginning next Tuesday it would reduce to 9.26 per cent from 10.89 per cent the annual percentage rate on a typcial 24-month loan of more than $500. For 36-month loans, the annual percentage rate will be 9.15 per cent instead of 10.75 per cent, the bank said.

Absentee Votes For Gothenburg City Land Sale

Gothenburg (AP) — Absentee ballots counted Thursday decided the elderly housing land sale issue in favor of the proposal.

The proposal to sell city-owned land to the housing developer for $20,000 passed on a final official total of 423 votes, with 418 against.

Of the 18 absentee ballots counted Thursday, 12 were in favor in the plan and 6 opposed it. After counting ballots Tuesday night when the polls closed, the vote was 411 in favor and 412 against.

Bolivia Twins To Get 'Promised' Education

Anaheim, Calif. (UPI) — Bolivian twins Judith and Ruth Leonardini, already overwhelmed by the pace and life in the United States, toured Disneyland Thursday before heading to Utah and the college education which President Nixon promised them 18 years ago.

The 18-year-old twins, who had never before been more than 50 miles from their home in La Paz, Bolivia, arrived in Southern California Wednesday and were immediately caught up in a whirlwind of sightseeing and visiting with their first American hosts.

They saw southern Californias freeway system and then toured lion country safari, the wildlife reservation made famous by the late Frasier, the sensous lion.

Ruth and Judith were only infants and were in a public health clinic when then Vice President Nixon toured South America 18 years ago.

After holding the girls in his arms, Nixon said he would see to it that when they grew up, they would get a college education in the United States.

That promise was recalled by the girls' mother, Haydee, when they turned 18 last March 28 and 27 schools offered them full scholarships, including Nixon's Southern California alma mater, Whittier College.

Because they are Mormons, Ruth and Judith picked Brigham Young University at Provo, Utah. The school is owned by the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints.

The girls said they were awed by the size and complexity of southern California.

"I was so excited it was like a dream," Judith said. "I'm so impressed with how big and beautiful Los Angeles is — how much different it is from my La Paz."

The girls will study sociology when they register at BYU next September.

Land Use Bill 'Gutting' Fails

Washington (UPI) — The Senate Thursday defeated a Republican attempt to sharply restrict federal guidelines in a $1 billion land use bill which its chief sponsor said would have "gutted" the measure.

The amendment, offered by Sen. Clifford Hansen, R-Wyo., would have removed the "areas of critical environmental concern" included in the bill which the states would be required to consider in any land use program. It was voted down 20-63.

The bill, in its fifth day of Senate debate, would distribute federal funds over an eight-year period to the states to assist in the creation of such programs to regulate and control land development.

The Hansen amendment would have deleted "fragile or historic lands," "natural hazard lands," and "renewable resource lands" from the bill's guidelines.

Hansen, together with a group of GOP senators who oppose the bill, argued that "the breadth and scope of such a definition is impossible to accurately calculate."

They said the bill's definitions were so broad that "in some states every square foot of private and state land could fall within such a limitless definition.

Sen. Paul Fannin, R-Ariz., said it would destroy "the American concept and practice of private ownership of land."

But Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said the amendment would "gut the bill."

The "final designation" of which areas should be included in a state land use program "would be left to the states," Jackson said.

A further attempt by Fannin to reduce the bill's annual grant authority from $100 million per year to $40 million for the first two years, to be cut by $10 million for each additional year, was defeated by a vote of 27-57.

The Fannin amendment would have drastically cut the $1.066 billion measure by $770 million.

Lithium Carbonate Used For Manic Depression

New York (UPI) — The advent of a new drug, lithium carbonate, has eliminated the need for electroshock therapy for most cases of manic depression and made it possible for the family physician to treat this common illness, a psychiatric researcher said Thursday.

Dr. Ronald Fieve, chief of psychiatric research at the New York state psychiatric institute, said in a report prepared for delivery to the 122nd annual convention of the American Medical Association that although lithium carbonate has been in use since 1970 only 50,000 of the 6 million Americans afflicted with manic depression are receiving the drug.

He urged physicians to familiarize themselves with it.

WHEREAS, it is for the convenience of the inhabitants of said City of Lincoln, Nebraska, and for the public that said replat be approved and accepted as filed.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT ORDAINED by the City Council of the City of Lincoln, Nebraska:

Section 1. That Applewood Drive from 65th Street to the easterly limits of the plat of Colonial Hills 4th Addition, be and it hereby is vacated.

Section 2. That the plat of COLONIAL HILLS 4TH ADDITION REPLAT, as an addition in the City of Lincoln, Nebraska, filed in the office of the Planning Department of the City of Lincoln, Nebraska, by West Gate, Inc., a corporation, and The Commonwealth Company, a corporation, as owners, be and it hereby is accepted and approved, and the said owners be and they are hereby given the right to plat said COLONIAL HILLS 4TH ADDITION REPLAT, as an addition in the City of Lincoln, Nebraska, in accordance therewith. Such acceptance and approval are conditioned upon the following conditions:

First: That the owners above set forth shall at their own cost and expense pay for all labor, material, engineering, and inspection costs in connection with bringing all the streets and public ways within said replat to such grades as shall be officially established, in writing, by the Director of Public Works and maintained with the official records of the Department of Public Works.

Second: That the owners above set forth shall at their own cost and expense pay for all labor, material, engineering and inspection costs in connection with the construction of sidewalks to be constructed along both sides of all interior streets and in the ten foot wide walkway area between Lots 5 and 6, Block 1, COLONIAL HILLS 4TH REPLAT. The construction of said sidewalks shall be completed not later than February 1, 1977.

Third: That the owners above set forth shall at their own cost and expense pay for all labor, material, engineering and inspection costs in connection with the construction of a system of storm sewerage and drainage to serve said plat, to be located as designated by the City Engineer. Said system of storm sewerage and drainage shall be designed and constructed in conformance with "Storm Sewer Design Criteria" published by the Department of Public Works for the City of Lincoln in January, 1970, filed in the office of the City Engineer. Construction of said system of storm sewerage and drainage shall be completed not later than February 1, 1975.

Fourth: That the owners above set forth shall at their own cost and expense pay for all labor, material, engineering and inspection costs in connection with the placing of permanent monuments at all corners of all lots, streets, avenues, angle points and ends of all curves of COLONIAL HILLS 4TH ADDITION REPLAT. The above required lot staking shall be completed not later than January 1, 1974.

Fifth: That the owners above set forth shall petition the City for the creation of an ornamental street lighting district to accomplish the construction of a system of street lighting along all interior streets within said replat.

Sixth: That prior to the effective date of this ordinance, the above named owners shall enter into a written agreement with the City of Lincoln which shall provide that Outlots A, B, and C, of said replat, are nonbuildable lots and shall not be issued building permits until such time as said Outlots are platted into single family residential lots in accordance with the land subdivision ordinance.

Section 3. That the owners above set forth shall, prior to final passage of this ordinance, execute and deliver to the City of Lincoln:

(a) a bond in the sum of $750.00 conditioned upon the strict compliance by the above named owners with the conditions contained in paragraph designated "Fourth" of the next preceding section of this ordinance;

(b) an endorsement to Bond Number 400CW4833, dated January 19, 1973, amending said bond to guarantee the strict compliance by the above named owners with the conditions contained in paragraph designated "Second" of the next preceding section of this ordinance;

(c) an endorsement to Bond Number 400CW4834, dated January 19, 1973, amending said bond to guarantee the strict compliance by the above named owners with the conditions contained in paragraph designated "Third" of the next preceding section of this ordinance, and amending the penal sum of said bond from $21,700.00 to $33,400.00;

(d) the bond and endorsements required above shall be subject to the approval of the City of Lincoln, Nebraska, and shall be further conditioned that in the event the above named owners fail to comply with the conditions herein set forth within the time specified in this ordinance, the City Council shall proceed to fulfill said conditions, the cost thereof, to be paid by the surety. Such work shall be performed in the manner set forth in Title 26 of the Lincoln Municipal Code, known as the Land Subdivision Ordinance, as now existing or as may hereafter be amended.

Section 4. Immediately upon the taking effect of this ordinance, the owners shall file a certified copy of this ordinance, together with the written agreement required herein in the office of the Register of Deeds of Lancaster County, Nebraska.

Section 5. That this ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage and publication according to law.

TO THE PUBLIC

Notice is hereby given that a public hearing will be commenced at 2:00 p.m. on Tuesday, June 26, 1973 in the Commissioners Hearing Room of the County-City Building, 555 South 10th, Lincoln, Nebraska, to consider a proposal to supplement the previously adopted budget statement for the General Fund of Lancaster County by adding thereto the sum of $75,000.00 required to meet current expenses. The Lancaster County Board of Commissioners has found that an emergency exists in that because of unforeseen circumstances, the revenue of the current fiscal year for said fund is insufficient to meet the costs of purchasing property for the Juvenile Attention Center, and that a reduction in the previously adopted budget of expenditures therefor would result in curtailment of the operation thereof.

The summary of the originally adopted budget previously published is as follows:

	Actual Expense Current Year 7-1-71 to 6-30-72	Ensuing Year 7-1-72 to 6-30-73 Proposed	Adopted
Total Budget of Expenditures	3,314,078.13	4,113,860.00	4,113,860.00

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Forecast For Friday

In response to my recent question about vegetarians, thus far the result has been approximately two to one in favor of Sagittarians. The sampling is far too small, but it would appear that there is a predominance of Sagittarius among those who are vegetarians. Leo is running second.

* * *

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You could feel blocked, restricted, confined. Don't panic. Situation is temporary. Keep promise to one who is incapacitated. Value your privacy. Know that being alone is not necessarily the same as being lonely.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Be receptive. One you care for reciprocates feeling. Romance, affection are featured. If perceptive, desires can be fulfilled. Gentle approach brings results. You can win friends and influence people. Popularity is on upswing.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Surprise accolade is due. You could get raise in pay, promotion, assignment to special civic duty. Taurus, Libra persons could figure prominently. You gain through diplomacy. Win your way. Remember special anniversary.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Accent is on travel, educational pursuits, the ability to communicate ideas. Be sure your meanings are made clear to those at a distance. You get favorable response from one who seemed "out of touch."

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Nothing now is apt to be lukewarm, it is all or nothing. Don't start anything unless you intend to finish it. Stakes are apt to be high and "for keeps." Relationship intensifies. Capricorn is involved.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Do plenty of listening, observing. Maintain low profile. Emphasis is on special agreement, contract. Pisces individual appears to be very much involved. Get finger on pulse of public opinion. Improve relations with officials.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Strive to express yourself through accepted channels. Means avoid excess. Stick to what you know. One who shares your ideals could be willing ally if you are careful not to offend by sensational methods. Contact Leo.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Emotions can serve now as reliable guide. Means what you feel is likely to be valid. Heed inner voice. Refuse to be bullied by one who hurls apparent facts, figures. Aquarian could be in picture.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Social activity accelerates. You could be getting messages, calls, invitations. But it is best to expect nothing for nothing. Do your entertaining on familiar ground. Gemini is sincere but apt to be confused. Exhibit sense of humor.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): A call or message should be double-checked. Be scrupulous about details. Relatives tend now to be careless unless they are directly concerned. Know it and protect your own interests. Aquarius, Leo and Scorpio could be involved.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Accent is on money, ability to put ideas into working order. Debts are paid, collected. Take stock of financial situation. Do plenty of comparison shopping. If you browse, you could obtain legitimate bargain. Act accordingly.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Lunar cycle is such that you impress people, win friends, attract opposite sex. You can make your life more beautiful—and comfortable. Purchase of luxury item is favored. And do something about your record or book collection, too!

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you were on your own early, possibly psychologically estranged from family. You always have been willing to tear down in order to rebuild. You are unique. You could be famous. You could also compile wealth. In July, you get going with new contacts, projects. You will be more independent and there will be outlet for your creative energies. You draw to you many born under Scorpio and Taurus.

Paying Off The Debt

Omaha — Not counting the oats he's eaten, Haveago could pay off his "mortgage" to millionaire owner Ken Opstein Saturday at Ak-Sar-Ben.

And Opstein isn't counting the price of the oats against the star of his stable, pointing out, "It doesn't cost any more to feed a $100,000 horse than a $2,000 one.

Opstein knows about those $2,000 horses, too, although he hasn't had one for the past three years, dealing almost exclusively in those in the $50,000 range and up.

Haveago has been top weighted at 121 pounds for Saturday's $50,000-added Cornhusker Handicap at Ak-Sar-Ben and coming off victories in the $25,000-added King's Handicap and the $25,000-added George Brandeis Memorial Handicap the 6-year-old likely will go off as the betting favorite.

A victory would put his earnings since Opstein bought him after he had won the Bing Crosby Handicap at Del Mar in the fall of 1971 at well over the $75,000 purchase price.

But while Opstein isn't holding the feed bill against Haveago, neither is he counting another $50,000 debt that the winner of more than $39,000 already this year might owe him.

$50,000 Horse Destroyed

In the spring of 1972, Opstein was shipping Haveago, along with another horse he had bought for $50,000, from his farm in Ocala, Fla., to Ak-Sar-Ben.

En route, Haveago grabbed the other horse by the neck. The victim, reacting to Haveago, broke a leg and in the scuffle banged up Haveago's hocks.

The other horse was destroyed, according to Opstein without his permission, and Haveago had the worst season of his career, winning only slightly more than $16,000 in 1972.

"He wasn't quite right last year," Opstein explains. "He was in the money in only five of 11 races while for his career he's been in the money in 22 of his 29 races."

That means six of his seven out-of-the-money efforts came last year. The seventh came early this season. In seven outings this year, Haveago has won two, finished second twice and third twice.

In his last two stakes triumphs at Ak-Sar-Ben, he has virtually destroyed the opposition.

Returning To 1971 Form

As the pacesetter in the King's Handicap, he won by 18 lengths over Van Berg's Canadian Jeff, covering the mile and 70 yards over a heavy track in 1:44 4/5.

In the Brandeis Memorial Handicap, Canadian Jeff decided to duel with Haveago for the early lead, but faded and finished fourth as the Opstein horse sped the half mile in 46 2/5, three-quarters in 1:11 and finished the mile and one-sixteenth in 1:44 3/5.

"He's returning now to the form he showed in 1971," Opstein believes. "He always did have tremendous speed and now he's showing he can also go a distance.

"In 1971 he was running close to track records. His speed ratings were all 95 or above."

That year, he ran 6 1/2 furlongs in Chicago at 2/5s off the track record. Running on a grass course, he covered a mile in 1:31 1/5, only one-fifth of a second off the world record.

That kind of performances have made Haveago a personal favorite with his owner.

Speed Is Exciting

"A horse with that kind of speed is exciting," Opstein points out, "And I guess you could say he's sort of a favorite of mine."

Since buying the horse, Opstein, a vice-president of Pennsylvania Life, who skips around among the company's eight offices and the race track, has seen every race Haveago has run.

In winning the King's Handicap by 18 lengths, Haveago carried only 109 pounds. He toted 114 in winning the Brandeis Memorial by seven lengths and will be saddled with 121 for Saturday's Cornhusker Handicap at a mile and one-sixteenth.

"When you get up to that much weight at a distance, you have to be concerned," Opstein says, "But I think he can carry it."

One thing is certain and that's that Haveago will take his 121 pounds to the front early. "He's a front runner," the owner admits, "But he goes all the way.

"Jockeys who have ridden him have told me that he doesn't dig in until another horse gets up beside him. He likes to go eyeball to eyeball with them."

Speed Test With Beira

Opstein figures his star likely will hook up in an early speed test with Van Berg's Beira Saturday.

"He's got so much speed that he makes some horses quit," Opstein notes, "But he'll get a good test from Beira Saturday."

Beira has won Ak-Sar-Ben's two major sprint races at 6 furlongs, the $20,000-added Beef State Handicap in 1:11 4/5 and the $35,000-added Ak-Sar-Ben Handicap in 1:10 2/5.

"But Beira may not be able to go the distance," Opstein feels.

If Haveago and Beira should burn each other out in an early speed duel, Opstein would still be in good position to win his first Cornhusker Handicap with stablemate Mambrino, a stretch runner.

Opstein started in the horse racing business seven years ago, paying $1,250 for his first horse. Allowing for the cost of inflation that one's feed bill was no higher than Haveago's.

. . . AURORA HORSEMAN HOPING QUEEN'S TURN RETURNS TO 'FONNER FORM'

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer

Omaha — Queen's Turn, a standout at this spring's Fonner Park meeting in Grand Island yet a disappointment at Ak-Sar-Ben, hopes to make amends for two previous starts when she battles 13 foes in Friday's Lassie Stakes here at Ak-Sar-Ben.

The pride of Paul M. Kemling of Aurora, Queen's Turn captured the Juvenile championship at Grand Island. She won the $10,330 Juvenile Stakes and the $8,750 Expectation Stakes in easy fashion.

Yet, she has finished out of the money twice in Omaha, although the quality of her opposition was definitely superior to her Third City foes. She finished fourth in the Lady Sponsors' Stakes — beaten 13 lengths by Thirty One Jewels and she was fifth to Ken Opstein's Villa Fire in her initial Omaha start.

But, if she regains her Fonner Park form, she may be the one to catch at the 5-furlong distance for 2-year-old Nebraska-bred fillies seeking a $15,000 added purse.

She is co-topweighted at 120 pounds with the M. H. Van Berg Stables' Road of Roses. That miss broke her maiden in a wire-to-wire effort on May 12 at Churchill Downs, yet placed seventh in the Lady Sponsors' Stakes here on June 1.

Getting in at second topweight of 116 pounds is the Bevilacqua Stables' Vickies Gigi. She snapped her maiden like a champion, winning a June 14 maiden special weight test over 5 furlongs by a romping 12 lengths. Her time over the 5/8ths mile was :59 3-5.

Kemling, who has entered Patsy's Reign and Eynuakem, is aiming for his sixth Lassie Stakes title in the last eight tries.

His Bold Accent won 1967, he took both divisions in 1968 with Jeanie Kem and Merry Kem and captured the 1969 event with Miss The Road. T. C. Evans' Miss The Road snapped the streak in 1970, but Kemling's Amajewel took the 1971 event last year Harold Bly's Royal Jamie and prevailed.

Other entries include J. Lindley's Fool's Flower and Game Hem and the Circle Y Stable's Heradlic and Dawn Darling. Those fillies will each carry 112 pounds.

Other entrants (all with 112 pounds) include Valley Cadet, Choice Doll, Sturdy Princess, Kiowa Maid and Open Fare Free.

In Thursday's featured race, Willie Grey, owned by N. W. McGrew, scored his first victory since May 23 and his second in six Ak-Sar-Ben outings.

Nels Petersen guided the roan gelding to a 1:11 1-5 clocking over the 6-furlong jaunt.

Willie Grey returned backers $55.80, $20.40 and $9.00 while Union Grey paid $8.00 and $5.00 for the place. Greek Thought showed for $3.80.

LEAHY DIES AT 65

Once Filled 'Gaps'

PORTLAND (AP) — Frank Leahy, who successfully bridged the gap between two football dynasties at Notre Dame, died here Thursday. He was 65.

Doctors at Good Samaritan Hospital listed congestive heart failure as the cause of death. Leahy had been in poor health for several years.

Leahy's football career was rooted in the era of the immortal Knute Rockne, whom he played under on the 1929 Irish national championship team. He served as an assistant coach under Rockne, and in 1941 assumed the head coaching position at Notre Dame.

The Winner, S.D. native posted a record of 87 victories, 11 deteats and 9 ties in his coaching career at Notre Dame, which ended in 1953. His overall head coaching mark was 107-139.

Although his efforts were not as spectacular as Rockne's, Leahy's teams went undefeated six times and four of them won national championships. While Rockne compiled an .897 winning percentage, Leahy had an .888 mark as head coach at Boston College and Notre Dame.

It was only slightly more than a decade after Leahy's departure—because of ill health—that Ara Parseghian became coach and began a winning tradition of his own.

After retiring from Notre Dame, Leahy became associated with various business enterprises, then returned to football in 1960 as general manager of the American Football League's Los Angeles Chargers.

After a year in professional ball, he re-entered the insurance business. He moved to Lake Oswego, Ore., a Portland suburb, in 1963 and continued in business as an executive vice president of Canteen Corp. of San Jose, Calif., which operates refreshment dispensing machines.

Leahy once recalled an incident when he was playing at tackle under Rockne who told him, "Leahy, your feet aren't going in the right direction."

Though his feet may have been mixed up as a player, his path never deviated far from success along the sidelines as a coach.

He was an assistant coach at Georgetown University and Michigan State before going to Fordham, where he helped build the line which became known as the "Seven Blocks of Granite."

One of his pupils at Fordham was Vince Lombardi, who as a head coach with the Green Bay Packers showed how far the stern discipline approach of coaching employed by Leahy could take a team.

When he first became head coach at Boston College, a local newspaper headlined the story 'B.C. Signs Unknown Leahy.'

Leahy wasn't unknown long. His 1939 team lost just one regular season game and in 1940, his team rocketed to the Eastern Championship with 10 regular season victories and a Sugar Bowl triumph over Tennesee.

The next year, with the coaching spot open at South Bend because of the retirement of Elmer Layden, Leahy came home. When he was named head coach in March some called him another Rockne, but he said, "They'll never be another Rockne. We'll do our best and you'll be proud of your team, but the day of the undefeated Notre Dame teams is over."

Leahy proved to be a poor prophet. In his first season back after, he led the Irish through an undefeated season which brought him coach of the year honors. Scrapping the traditional Irish box formation for a T-formation, his teams of 1946-49 built up a streak of 38 games without a loss

NU Ticket Suit Hurried

Like Big Red football itself, Lancaster District Court is moving a little faster in a case challenging the manner used to sell football tickets at University of Nebraska.

Judge Herbert Ronin has agreed to waive a 20-day waiting period so a deposition can be taken soon from James S. Pittinger, director of ticket sales, defendant in a suit brought by David L. Kutsch, a member of the faculty of the College of Dentistry.

Ronin said he agreed to waive the waiting period because "time is of the essence", noting the approaching football opener Sept. 8.

Kutsch complains that Pittenger is not fullfilling his duty to treat the general public fairly in ticket sales. The suit contends that Pittenger in fact has sold large blocks of season tickets to select individuals, corporations and associations. This action, the suit alleges, deprives the public of its right to buy tickets on a first come first serve basis.

The suit contends Pittenger has showed favoritism to booster clubs such as the Touchdown Club. Club members get preferential treatment, the suit argues, if they pay a $100 membership.

— CHAMP KEEPS TITLE —

Hyland Gets 12th Victory

By RANDY EICKHOFF

Jean Hyland coasted to a 19-stroke victory in the Lincoln City Women's Golf Tournament at the Hillcrest Country Club Thursday to successfully defend her title and claim her 12th crown in the event.

Kathy Hughett won the junior division crown with an eight-stroke victory over Amy Campbell.

Last year, Mrs. Hyland won the tournament with a 35-stroke advantage, but the tourney was shortened this year from four days to three while the junior division was dropped from eighteen holes per day to nine.

Sally Roper, runner-up for the women's title, dropped six strokes to Mrs. Hyland on the first day of the tournament at the Lincoln Country Club (81-87), fell seven more at Holmes Golf Course (86-93) after the second day's play and dropped another six at Hillcrest (80-86). Mary Liggett was third, four strokes behind Mrs. Roper.

Mrs. Hyland played the front nine at Hillcrest in even par with the exception of the par 4, 343-yard No. 5 which she bogeyed, but got that stroke back on No. 10 with a birdie over the par 5, 374-yard hole.

She promptly lost that stroke with a bogey on No. 11 and bogeyed Nos. 13, 15, and 16 before collecting a birdie on the par 5, 382-yard No. 17. Her bid for a two-over par back nine fell short, however, when she bogeyed No. 18, a par 4, 436-yard challenge for a 40 that gave her an 80 for the day.

Ficke Captures Boys Golf Title

By RANDY EICKHOFF
Star Sports Writer

Jerry Ficke hung on to his three-stoke lead over Tom Taylor to win the Lincoln Boys' Junior City Golf Tournament Thursday.

But the title was hardly sewn up as Taylor shaved Ficke's lead to only one stroke after the first three holes had been played at Holmes Golf Course.

Taylor was only two-down after the first hole then collected a par on the third hole when Ficke bogeyed. Ficke got that stroke back on the 338-yard No. 4 when he collected a birdie then got the second one back with a bogey on No. 6 while Taylor fell to a double-bogey over the par 4 hole.

Taylor gained another stroke on No. 8, but lost that when he bogeyed the No. 9 as the pair played the front nine in identical 42s.

Ficke collected another birdie on the 515-yard par 5 No. 10 to go yet another stroke in front of Taylor, but Taylor parred No. 12 while Ficke took a double-bogey to drop to a two-stroke lead. He got his three-stroke advantage back on No. 13 with a par when Taylor bogeyed then birdied No. 14 for yet another.

But then Ficke bogeyed No. 15, collected that stroke again on No. 16 with a birdie while Taylor parred then fell again on No. 17 with a bogey as Taylor again parred. They played the last hole even for a pair of 38s on the back nine and even 80s over the par 72 course for eighteen.

Dischinger Ends Playing Career

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Terry Dischinger of the Portland Trail Blazers has announced his retirement after nine seasons in the National Basketball Association.

The 6-foot-7 forward revealed his decision in a letter to Stu Inman, vice president and player personnel director of the Blazers. He said he plans to pursue special dental studies which he hopes may lead to establishment of a practice in Portland.

NU's Teel Advances In NCAA

Stillwater, Okla. (AP) — Florida, with two new golfers crashing into the sub-par zone, vaulted to an 11 stroke lead over Oklahoma State after the second round Thursday of the NCAA Golf Championships here.

Bill Kratzert of Georgia fired a 67 to emerge as the second-round leader with a 136, four under par. He has a one-stroke lead over a trio that includes two-time champion Ben Crenshaw of Texas.

Florida, which led the Cowboys by only one stroke Wednesday, wound up with a two-day team total of 558. Oklahoma State was at 569, one stroke ahead of Houston

Gary Teel was the Nebraska golfer who made the cut. Teel added a 2-over-par 72 Thursday to his 70 Wednesday to finish with a 36-hole conglomerate of 142.

Nebraska's team finished at 594 and failed to make the 585 cut .16 teams made the cut.

Rick Schultz was second high for the Huskers with a 76 Thursday to bring his total to 148. Other NU golfers were Larry Schmidt (75-76—151), Dan Bahensky (73-80—153), and Steve King (78-75—153).

Baseball Group Files Grievance

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Major League Baseball Players Association Thursday filed a grievance with the Player Relations Committee, protesting the lack of an adequate warning track at Royals Stadium in Kansas City, Mo., site of the 1973 All Star Game.

The grievance, filed by Marvin J. Miller of the Players Association, demands the "hazardous condition immediately be corrected" or else all games to be played at Royals Stadium in the future—including the All Star Game—be moved to another location.

Miller stated that the Players Association has "repeatedly discussed this situation with the owners' representatives," with no action being taken. Miller pointed out that there have been numerous injuries resulting from the lack of an adequate outfield warning track in the stadium, "the most noteable of which was the disabling injury to Willie Horton of the Detroit Tigers in May."

John Gaherin, Counsel for the Player Relations Committee, said that the owners are aware of the situation and that "one thing must be made clear and that is, there is a warning track at Royals Stadium.

"Other than that," Gaherin concluded, "all I can say is that we have been in touch with the situation and I see nothing conclusive at this time for any basis to the allegations."

Stanford Tops Tennis Tourney

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — California teams kept their grip on the first three places at the 89th annual National Collegiate Athletic Association's tennis tournament during competition Thursday.

Stanford Leads with 28 points, Southern California is second with 26 and UCLA IS third with 25 points.

Houston and Southern Methodist are a distant fourth with 15 points each. Miami are Michigan are tied for sixth with 14 points.

The three California schools monopolized the singles competition by snaring all for spots in Friday's semifinals. Three of the top four seeded players made the semifinals.

AAA Lead Held By Five Clubs

Bryant Earns College Award

Denver — University of Nebraska sports information director Don Bryant was named the recipient of two awards here Thursday at the College Sports Information Directors of America's annual workshop.

The 1972 Nebraska football press, radio and TV guide written and edited by Bryant and sports information assistant Tom Simons, was picked as the best in NCAA District 5.

The national award for football brochures will be announced Saturday.

In addition, the 1973 Nebraska track and field guide, written edited by Bryant and student assistant Dave McBride, was picked as the best in the nation for a winter and spring brochure for one sport.

Nebraska Frosh To Face OU, CU

Nebraska athletic director Bob Devaney has announced the Huskers' 1973 freshman schedule — a schedule with a couple of new faces.

Wichita State has been dropped from the schedule and Big Eight rivals Oklahoma and Colorado have been added, giving the Huskers a Big Eight-only slate.

The Husker frosh will take on the Sooner yearlings in a Monday night game at Norman Oct. 22, and host the Buffalo freshmen on Friday, Nov. 2.

Coach Jim Ross' freshmen enter the 1973 campaign undefeated in the past three years and riding a 14-game win string. The last loss was to McCook Junior College in 1969, 21-13.

The Husker frosh will play a five-game schedule this year instead of the four-game slate of the past as a result of a new Big Eight rule instituted this spring which permits an extra contest. With the exception of the Oklahoma game, all games will be played on Friday afternoons.

The schedule:

Sept. 28 — Kansas State at Manhattan; Oct. 12 — Missouri at Columbia; Oct. 22 — Oklahoma at Norman (night); Nov. 2 — Colorado in Lincoln; Nov. 9 — Iowa State in Lincoln.

Chinese Down JFK Cagers

Tokyo (AP) — The visiting U.S. collegiate all-star men's basketball team beat the Peking team, 94-67, but the U.S. women's team lost to the Chinese, 65-46, in Peking Thursday, reported the official Chinese news agency, Hsinhua, Friday.

These were the second encounters the Americans had with the Chinese since their arrival in the Chinese capital last Monday. Last Tuesday, the U.S. men's team beat the Chinese Institutes combined, 88-59, but the national AAU champions, the John F. Kennedy College girls, lost to the Chinese Physical Cultural Institutes combined, 79-63.

Hsinhua said towards the end of the women's match, the Americans "began to lose some of their earlier precision," allowing the Chinese to widen the gap and eventually win the match by a margin of 19 points.

Top scorers were Jen Huan-Chen of Peking with 20 points followed by her teammate, Ho Chiang, with 16 points and American Barbara Wisehmeier with 14 points.

Net Boycott Less Likely?

LONDON (AP) — Cliff Drysdale, leader of the tennis rebels, talked with a British government minister Thursday night and said the chances of averting the big boycott of Wimbledon were "25 per cent better."

Hopes of a settlement revived as the hours ticked away towards the Friday morning deadline—when Wimbledon officials are due to study the entry list and make the seedings and the draw.

By then they will know whether the cream of the world's players—more than 60, including reigning champion Stan Smith—will persist in their threat of a walkout.

Jack Kramer, executive director of the Association of Tennis Professionals which planned the boycott, said the Yugoslavs were "reconsidering their position" on Nikki Pilic.

Girl Competing In Team Roping At North Platte

North Platte (UPI)—For the first time in history, a female Wednesday night participated in the Buffalo Bill Rodeo.

Michelene Long, 16, the daughter of nationally known artist Ted Long of North Platte, was entered with Wes Iverson of North Platte in the team roping event.

Miss Long and Iverson failed to place in the first go-round, but were scheduled for the second attempt Friday night.

A rodeo spokesman said it was the first time to his knowlege that a woman participated in the rodeo, held in North Platte in conjunction with the Nebraskaland Days. Iverson is the teenaged son of Larry Iverson, one of the rodeo committee members.

Lincoln A's Hit Dwight, 11-0

Dwight — Larry Abel hiked his record to 3-0 here Wednesday night as the Lincoln A's blanked Dwight, 11-0, in semi-pro baseball.

Abel struck out eight in the seven-inning game as the Lincoln team raised its record to 7-2.

Ley To Begin State Match Play Title Defense Against Haskins

Fremont — Mike Ley will begin defense of his Nebraska State Match Play Golf Championship against Greg Haskins of Hastings next Thursday at the Fremont Golf Club.

The 32-man field is complete except for four Lincoln entries to be determined at a Saturday qualifying round at Holmes Park.

The match play tournament will be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday of next week. Del Ryder, executive secretary of the sponsoring Nebraska Amateur Golf Association, announced the pairings Thursday.

The top match in the opening round of play figures to be one between eight-time State Amateur king Bob Astleford of Omaha and former professional Gary Gruenemeier of Omaha, who regained his amateur standing last spring.

Astleford was among 16 automatic qualifiers while Gruenemeier earned a spot through a qualifying round held in Omaha.

The 15 low finishers in the previous year's State Amateur, plus the defending champion, automatically qualify for the tourney with the other 16 spots being filled through qualifying rounds across the state.

The first round pairings with the automatic qualifier listed first:

UPPER BRACKET

Mike Ley, Lincoln, vs. Greg Haskins, Hastings; Larry Sock, Norfolk, vs. Lincoln No. 3; Guy Lammle, Peru, vs. Dick Jensen, Omaha; Jack Kendzior, Omaha, vs. Dean Petricek, Clarkson; Jim Hogeland, Alma, vs. Lincoln No. 2; Jim Strasheim, Norfolk, vs. Bob Holmes, Omaha; Mark Winstrom, Omaha, vs. Jon Weinberg, Fremont; Mike Golter, Lincoln, vs. Lincoln No. 1.

LOWER BRACKET

Dan Bahensky, Lincoln, vs. Lincoln No. 4; Gary Teel, Lincoln, vs. Bill Parker, Omaha; Tom Sieckman, Millard, vs. Dave Walker, Omaha; Jim Roudebush, Omaha, vs. Gary Anderson, Norfolk; Charlie Borner, North Platte, vs. Tony Pesavento, Omaha; John Tomasiewicz, Omaha, vs. Gene Smith, Hastings; Bob Astleford, Omaha, vs. Gary Gruenemeier, Omaha; Don Bridge, Norfolk, vs. Steve King, Lexington.

Can you spot the Camel Filters smoker?

© 1973 R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co.

In this picture, everybody has a gimmick... almost everybody. Try picking the one who doesn't go along. 1. No way. He's Gerry Atric, over-the-hill hippie. Irons his hair twice daily. Cigarettes taste just as flat. Gimmick: Watching bowling pins "do their own thing, man." 2. Naomi Glowsoul. Gimmick: Uses so much body english that police have raided the place four times. 3. Nope. It's Angie "The Arm" Kugelman. Throws so hard three automatic pinsetting machines have quit. Smokes cigarettes so heavily filtered, he's like a man giving mouth-to-mouth resuscitation to a rock. 4. Right. He just likes bowling, not gimmicks. Likes his cigarette honest and no-nonsense, too. Camel Filters. Easy and good tasting. 5. Zooty Smith. Gimmick: Has worn same good luck clothes since he broke 125 in 1942. Smokes war surplus cigarettes and saves the tinfoil. 6. Whiz Kid Pringle. Developed math formula to bowl a perfect strike. Unfortunately releases ball on backswing.

LTS Board To Establish 5-Year Lincoln Bus Plan

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

The energy crisis and possible increased ridership as fuel becomes more scarce were major considerations of the Lincoln Transportation System Board Thursday in deciding to set up a five-year plan in preparation for possible new routes and additional equipment.

The board members agreed that if a plan is set up now, and then if fuel does become rationed, Lincoln might be ready to accommodate the increased need for public transportation.

Board Member Ross Martin said that people are beginning to take the bus because of ecological concerns and when gas becomes "harder to get people begin to ride the bus."

One Step Ahead

John Alden said he felt that a long-range plan is needed so that if there is a situation in which people are "fighting for fuel and equipment," the organization that has established planning would undoubtedly be in a better position in line for the limited supply.

Martin said that the board has already turned down some requests for added service because the city just doesn't have any extra equipment.

"We don't have enough equipment to do anything beyond what we're doing now," he said.

City Atty. Dick Wood said he felt the long-range plan was an excellent idea because planning is essential if the city plans to seek federal funds through the Urban Mass Transportation Administration.

To Refer Matter

The board agreed to refer the matter to the planning department to provide the board with as much information as it has available.

Board members also expressed concern over the decrease in ridership on the mini-buses.

Although it was noted that some of the loss might be attributed to riders' use of transfers from other buses to the mini-bus line, accountant Mark Huddleston said this amounts to only $30 per month.

William Franklin, general superintendent for LTS, told the board that the maintenance on the mini-buses is extremely high and they are more expensive to run and maintain than the two older buses being used as mini-buses since one of the mini-buses was demolished in an accident.

The board agreed to pursue the used avenue for possible acquisition of additional mini-buses and to study extension of mini-bus routes to such places as the post office and between various government buildings.

In other action, the board unanimously approved within budget limitations hiring an inspector to check on how close buses are to their scheduled times and to keep accurate records so disciplinary actions can be taken if necessary.

Board members indicated that such a setup should be discussed with the union during negotiations so that the city may have the union's cooperation in the matter.

Franklin said he felt a good inspector would pay his salary in maintenance savings over a period of time.

Wood emphasized the importance of accurate record-keeping in order to eliminate any possible problems in disciplinary actions.

Promotion was also discussed, including giving priority to use of door-to-door handouts in order to get the information on LTS to the public as well as questionnaires to find out why the riders ride and why those who are not riders do not ride the buses.

Year's Food Stamps Total $1,168,468

A total of $1,168,468 worth of food stamps was issued in Lancaster County during the last year as compared with $252,142 worth issued for the first year of the program in 1965-66.

According to information released from the Lancaster County welfare office, May 31 marked the completion of eight years of the program since food stamps were first sold in Lancaster County beginning June 1, 1965, as a pilot project in the state.

During the last 12 months, an average of 3,724 people benefited from the food stamps each month in the county, slightly lower than the 3,811 monthly average last year.

During the 1972-73 year, the participating households spent $598,794.75 and received $569,673.25 in bonus or additional value in stamps.

This compares with $562,737.20 spent the previous year with a bonus of $567,497.80.

Beginning July 1 there will be an increase in the amount of stamps that a household may buy, according to Don Williamson of the Lancaster County Welfare office.

He explained that this increase will amount to $4 per four-member household.

The net adjusted incomes for non-assistance people to be eligible for food stamps have been increased to the following levels, effective July 1:

Number In Household	Net Adjusted Income
1	$183
2	240
3	313
4	387
5	460
6	533
7	600
8	667
9	720
10	773

Williamson said that available cash resources remains at the same level of $1,500 which includes all negotiable assets.

Liquor License For Pershing Given Approval

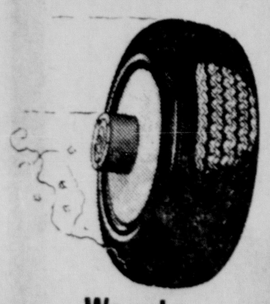

A license permitting sales by the drink has been approved by the State Liquor Control Commission for Lincoln's municipally owned Pershing Auditorium.

The order granting the Class C license was released Thursday by the commission.

During a public hearing on the license application June 5, several persons appeared to protest its issuance.

He came up with the wheel.

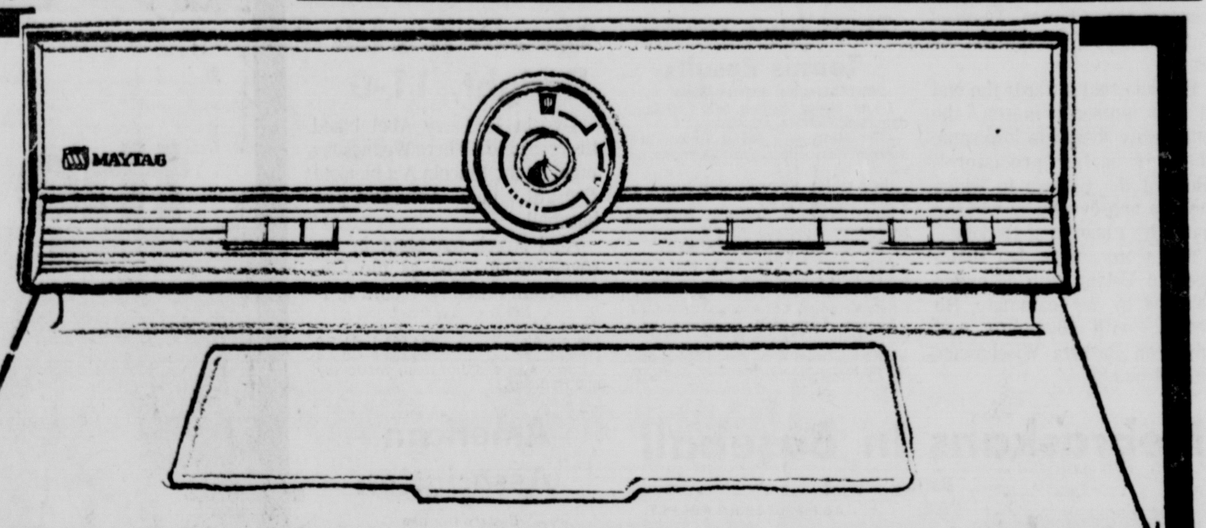

We put a Michelin Radial on it.

The first major transportation breakthrough appeared around 3,000 BC. Almost 5,000 years later Michelin introduced the first pneumatic tire.

And 24 years ago Michelin invented the first steel belted radial tire. The tire that fights off rocks, nails, and glass. The tire that lasts twice as long as bias-ply tires. Why live in the stone age? See your Michelin Dealer now.

Mackey Says NU 'Roadblocks' May Cause Action By Militants

By DON BEMAN
United Press International

Robert Mackey, State Indian Commission director, said the roadblocks the University of Nebraska is throwing in the way of helping get Indian students educated may prompt some kind of militant action.

"These are the things that produce Wounded Knees — frustration," Mackey said in an interview.

"I'm not saying that I advocate that kind of approach, but I have no control over AIM (American Indian Movement) or anyone else who might go that direction," he added.

"In other words, I'm trying to tell Mr. Varner he's inviting trouble," the director said.

Mackey reported the State Indian Commission is scheduled to meet Friday to discuss the situation and a request was made to D. B. Varner, president of the NU system, to either be present or have a representative present for informational purposes.

But he declined, the director said.

"Mr. Varner is side-stepping this," he said.

During this year's session of the Legislature, Mackey met with Varner and other officials about the possibility of helping Indian students in the way of tuition aid. Immediately after the meeting Mackey reported an agreement had been reached but later Varner denied it.

"They're playing with this and we don't have any more time to play," Mackey said. "It's crucial we get our kids educated."

The director said he and the commission "are really trying" to get something done in the educational field in order to benefit about 20 Indian students.

As to how the Indian Commission may approach the problem, Mackey said it would continue to be negotiation "if we can ever get a chance to meet with these people."

"But we've got to have people talking with a straight tongue," he said.

Included in a commission action might be an appeal to the courts, the director said.

"Maybe this will bring the fire a little closer to Mr. Varner's feet," Mackey said.

He said he received a letter from Varner on the subject of the commission meeting and the tuition problem and the NU president said freezes and money problems were cutting into the availability of money for Indian aid.

"I still think there are adequate sources of funds and we intend to find them," Mackey said.

State Indian Commission Seeks To Fill Vacancies

The State Indian Commission is scheduled to meet Friday to begin putting together a list of candidates to fill 12 vacancies, two of which were added by the Legislature.

Robert Mackey, commission director, said the list of candidates would be submitted to Gov. J. J. Exon for final selections.

The vacancies to be filled include three from the Winnebago Tribe, three from the Omaha Tribe, two from the City of Omaha, one from Lincoln, one at large and two from the Panhandle region of the state.

The Santee Sioux delegation, the director said, would remain intact.

The Legislature this year increased the size of the commission from 13 to 15 members and directed that the two additional members must come from the western end of the state. Specifically, one from the north Panhandle area and one from the south.

County Agent Says Musk Thistle Threatening To Make Comeback

Musk thistle, once nearly eliminated from fields in eastern Nebraska, is in danger of making a comeback unless farmers act quickly, according to Emery Nelson, Lancaster County agent.

"The musk thistle must be destroyed this week if the formation of seeds is to be prevented. The noxious weed is now in full bloom and any delay will permit the development of seed," he said.

A healthy musk thistle plant can prodcue up to 14,000 seeds, according to Nelson. Each seed is equipped with its own parachute, allowing it to drift for miles on the wind.

"If these plants are permitted to bloom, we will have problems with these weeds for years to come," he warned.

Nelson noted that musk thistle is a weed officially prohibited by law. He urged every property owner, rural or city, to eliminate the plant by cutting and destroying it.

"It is too late to spray now. Even if the seeds do mature, they will spread a lot less if the plant is flat on the ground," he said.

Garage Death Ruled Suicide

The death of Abraham Feuerberg due to carbon monoxide poisoning has been ruled a suicide, according to the Lancaster County sheriff's office.

Lancaster County sheriff's reports said Deuerberg apparently went to his garage early Thursday morning, started his car and remained in the garage with the door shut. Mrs. Feuerberg discovered his body.

2 Lincolnites Score Well In French Test

Two city high schoolers have been named national award winners in the 1973 National French Contest, according to Lincoln Public Schools language consultant Elizabeth Grone.

The students are Kevin T. Powell of 3310 Cooper, a Southeast High student, and Annette Schroeder, of 2120 So. 50th, a student at Pound Junior High.

Competing with students from the 50 states, Kevin tied for sixth place in a level which matches students who have completed their third year of French study, and Annette tied for eighth in a class with students who had completed two years in junior high or one in high school.

In earlier regional competition in a nine-state area, Kevin had placed second and Annette third.

2 More Banks Up Prime Rates

New York (AP) — Two major New York banks, Chemical and Marine Midland, joined the movement toward a higher prime rate Thursday, boosting the minimum lending fee they charge large corporations from 7½ to 7¾ per cent.

Regents To Consider Med School Plan

University of Nebraska regents will consider Saturday a Medical Center proposal to create two new divisions in the School of Allied Health Professions.

The divisions would be one for physician's assistant education and one for radiologic technology.

The physician's assistant program accepted its first students in March and plans to take 20 more into the two-year program in July.

Some study at the Medical Center in Omaha while others study at Sheppard Air Force Base in Wichita Falls, Texas.

Twenty-seven students will be enrolled in the division of radiologic technology in the fall.

The regents will also consider creating a new Med Center post — assistant dean for research. Nominated for the position is Wayne L. Ryan, a professor of biochemistry and research professor of obstetrics and gynecology.

In other matters, the board will consider a recommendation to appoint F. Miles Skultety as interim chairman of the department of neurosciences.

Fuel Short In Perkins Co.

Grant (UPI) — Charles McCullough, manager of the Perkins County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service office here, said Thursday the area will be 150,000 to 200,000 gallons short of gasoline and diesel fuel during the month of July — at the time of the wheat harvest.

He met earlier with six gas dealers and distributors in the area to discuss the situation.

McCullough said one of the dealers closed Thursday with no more gas to sell until his July allotment arrives. Another supplier said the July allotment would be cut 12% on gas and 25% on diesel fuel.

Another service station in Grant said it was cutting back on the number of hours it stays open, limiting customers to $4 worth of gas each.

Two wholesalers reported their supplies for the remainder of the month as "shaky." They said they were unable to get a commitment from suppliers regarding July allotments.

Omaha City Council President Says Black Leader's Charges Untrue

Omaha, (AP) — Omaha City Council President Bob Cunningham replied Wednesday, to charges made by black civic leader Charles Washington.

Washington, a consultant to the Urban Housing Foundation and the Moderator of the "Omaha, What Can We Do" program, criticized the city council for its approval of the proposed $2.4 million riverfront development project.

Washington claimed that the project would not benefit the black community of Omaha because the funds to be put into the project would be going for condominiums, townhouses, and businesses.

Washington further claimed that one of the firms hired to construct the proposed industrial park "had not hired a single black."

"Completely untrue," said Cunningham as he replied to Washington's allegations.

He continued, "We had a public hearing on a Saturday morning, and Mr. Washington did not appear and voice any objections at that time.

The black community has supported the riverfront development idea in concept, and urged that the city council vote for it.

We had a letter from the Urban League and the O. I. C. (Opportunities Industrialization Center), and from several groups in the near northside black community, so I think his charges are completely unfounded."

Cunningham said, "I'm really quite surprised; quite shocked, that somebody like Mr. Washington would make those kinds of comments."

Replying to the alleged hiring discrimination charges, Cunningham said that to obtain the federal funds for the project, the city would have to hire firms that complied with the federal statutes on job discrimination.

Stocks Decline Sharply

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices fell sharply Thursday in uninspired trading as most investores waited on the sidelines.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials fell 11.03 points to 873.65, lowest level since Dec. 16, 1971 when the blue chip indicator closed at 871.39.

Trading was a dull 11.63 million shares on the New York Stock Exchange.

"Investors were just taking a wait-and-see attitude," said Ralph Acampora, analyst with Harris, Upham & Co. "The market seems to be in Limbo now."

He noted that much of the sharp decline came from the absence of buying support to absorb what little selling that occurred. "The market drifted lower under its own weight," he declared.

The sagging dollar and news that consumer prices on an un adjusted basis rose sharply last month, but not so fast as in April, may have also added some pessimism to the market outlook, brokers said.

Declines swamped advances on the NYSE by 1,023 to 355 among the 1,769 issues traded, indicating that losses covered a broad sweep of issues.

Western Air Lines was volume leader on the Big Board, down ½ to 6¾. A 265,000-share block traded at 6½, down ¾.

Tropicana, second most active, dropped 2⅛ to 20. Trading was paced by a 175,200-share block ag this price.

Arctic Entrprises, third most active, fell ¾ to 3⅞. A spokesman for the firm said the company knows of no reason for the decline in the price of the stock.

American Telephone, which has reported a 21 per cent leap in quarterly earnings, was off ⅛ to 50¾.

Trans World Airways fell 2½ to 19⅛. Directors have approved the purchase by the company in the open market or privately of up to about 10 per cent of the outstanding principal amount of its 6½ per cent subordinated income debentures due in 1978.

Gasoline Supplies Drop At Stations In Nebraska

Omaha (AP) — The Cornhusker Motor Club said Thursday that gasoline supplies are dwindling throughout Nebraska.

The club said vacationers traveling along Highway 2, one of the state's main routes to the Black Hills, may find it necessary to have their car tanks filled during the daylight hours.

It was reported that along a 288-mile stretch of Highway 2 between Grand Island and Hemingford, no stations were open after 6 p.m.

The weekly fuel gauge survey also revealed that gasoline suppliers in western Nebraska are being contacted by wheat harvest crews in Kansas and Oklahoma about guarantees of fuel before they move into the state early next month.

A filling station in Nebraska City had only 1,000 gallons of gasoline to last until the end of the month and was limiting purchases to five gallons per customer.

The club said a station at Henry on U.S. 26 in extreme western Nebraska is operating on a daily allotment and when that is gone, the station closes for the day.

At Sidney on U.S. 30, one station was limiting customers to 10 gallons and a station at Grand Island was limiting tourists to five gallons and 10 gallons to regular customers.

A station along Interstate 80 near Omaha was selling only $2 worth of gasoline to tourists and 10 gallons to regular customers, but was selling all that was needed to commercial vehicles.

Generally, however, travelers can get gasoline on most major routes through nebraska, except on Sundays, the motor club said.

"It is becoming apparent, though, that as the end of the month nears that shortages will be experienced within the next 10 days, so AAA advises to refill whenever your tank gets down to half full," the report said.

Only 44 per cent of the 32 stations surveyed were operating under normal conditions, a drop of 10 per cent from last week.

Six stations were operating with limited amounts of diesel fuel, while two stations said they were sold out.

The report said gasoline prices have remained stable and are expected to do so because of the price freeze imposed by Phase IV.

Some new station closings were reported, including some affiliated with major oil companies.

Off-Duty Fireman Puts Out Blaze

An off-duty fireman passing by a car on fire Thursday morning used a dry chemical to put out the blaze before the Lincoln Fire Department arrived.

Lt. Tom Roof extinguished the blaze at 36th & St. Paul in the engine of a car owned by Leo Bretta, 2639 No. 39th, according to Fire Lt. Ormand B. Plautz.

Plautz said there was "considerable" damage to wiring, hoses and paint on the hood of the auto. The fire was apparently caused by a broken fuel line, which leaked gas onto the manifold and ignited, Plautz said.

5-Year-Old Girl Hit By Auto OK

A 5-year-old Lincoln girl was treated for cuts and released from Bryan Memorial Hospital Thursday afternoon after she was struck by a car.

Debra S. Hansen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Owen Hansen of 4321 Knox, was running out of a driveway at 4330 Knox when she was hit by a car driven by Arvid C. Beranek, 44, of 4248 Knox, police said.

Beranek was westbound on Knox when about 15 to 20 feet from the driveway, he saw the girl running between the sidewalk and the curb, police said. He applied his brakes and skidded, but struck the girl.

Burglary Probed

Police Thursday were investigating a burglary that netted about $350 in jewelry from the home of Lucille A. Rushlau, 1602 B. She reported the incident Wednesday, which police said took place between May 25-28.

Omaha Seeks Cost Estimates On UP Station

Omaha (AP) — The Omaha City Council has decided to seek estimates on what it would cost to renovate the old Union Pacific Station.

The station was given to the city May 15. Discussion at that time indicated that it would take $600,000 to renovate the structure.

However, Councilman Monte Taylor said Thursday that repairs may run in the neighborhood of $2 million.

The council asked the department of recreation director to submit figures on the project at next week's meeting.

Special Lock Foils Burglar

SPARKS, NEV (AP) — Ken Braunstein knows whereof he speaks. He equipped his home with dead bolt locks, that require keys to open them from the inside as well as the outside.

Thus when a burglar broke in through a window and tried to make off with a color TV set, he couldn't get it through the the door and had to leave it behind.

Braunstein is associate professor of criminal justice at the University of Nevada-Reno.

Before you buy a new car, do your homework. Today's lesson is subtraction.

Datsun 1200	28.7 miles per gallon (mpg)	Datsun 1200	28.7 mpg
Vega 2300	21.5 mpg	VW Sedan 11	23.6 mpg
Datsun 1200	28.7 mpg	Datsun 1200	28.7 mpg
Mazda RX-3	13.5 mpg	Capri Coupe	21.6 mpg
Datsun 1200	28.7 mpg	Datsun 1200	28.7 mpg
Pinto Sedan	21.4 mpg	Ferrari 365 GTB	6.3 mpg

All mileage figures are from the Environmental Protection Agency's recent test findings. The Datsun 1200 delivered the highest gas mileage of all cars sold in the United States.

Datsun 1200. The more you subtract, the more it adds up.

Yesterday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE – Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you. 6-22
